

'No Commitments' At Treaty Confab, Roosevelt States

President Returns to Capital to Discuss Farm, Budget Problems

Washington (U-P)—President Roosevelt returned to Washington for conferences on farm, budget and housing problems today after asserting the United States would enter the nine-power treaty conference at Brussels Oct. 30 unhindered by any advance commitments to "other governments."

A 184-word formal statement on the Belgian parley to consider peace in the Orient was issued after a conference at Hyde Park, N. Y., with Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the conference, who sails today for Europe.

It was generally regarded as a reply to the statement of Senator Hiram Johnson (R-Calif.) demanding the president state his foreign policy intentions in "plain language," and asserting America was entering the conference with a prior understanding with Great Britain.

Answers Johnson

Johnson's statement that the "ambulatory" Ambassador Davis would not be going to Brussels "unless in advance a program had been agreed on between England and this country" drew this response from Mr. Roosevelt:

"Mr. Davis, of course, will enter the conference without any commitments on the part of this government to other governments."

Johnson, declaring against League of Nations entanglements, had asked the president to explain "just what he will do and not do" to achieve world peace. He also wanted to know what was meant by "quarantining" warring nations.

The chief executive has refused to say what this government's policy would be until a given situation presented itself, and in his statement last night he repeated what he had said in his Oct. 12 "fireside chat."

"Mr. Davis is going to Brussels," he said, "to represent this country at the meeting of the signatories of the nine-power Washington treaty, in response to an invitation issued by the Belgian government."

Meets Pledge

"The purpose of the conference is in conformity with the original pledge made by the parties to the nine-power treaty to have full and frank exchange of views with regard to the Far Eastern situation."

"In the language of the invitation to which this government is responding, the powers will examine the situation in the Far East and study a peaceable means of ending the regrettable conflict which prevails there."

"As I said in my radio broadcast on the evening of Oct. 12, 'the purpose of this conference will be to seek by agreement a solution of the present situation in China. In our efforts to find that solution, it is our purpose to cooperate with the other signatories to this treaty, including China and Japan.'"

Newspaper men were called to White House headquarters in Poughkeepsie and handed the president's statement by Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre the following day.

David had left the Roosevelt estate. The press conference developed no comment from the president on the stock market slump, but officials declared no federal move to close the New York Stock exchange was under consideration.

all over again," but a "step in the right direction" requiring "modification so that the justice and equality of all rights, including that of the public, will be recognized."

Hits Labor Policies

Labor—Declines "not only unsatisfactory" but "dangerous." When trouble came Roosevelt "again failed to follow the Constitution and, according to press reports the president shrugged his shoulders. He said it was a local affair. He said, 'a plague on both their houses' and went on another vacation."

The Hugo Black supreme court appointment—Tradition holds that "when a man is to be appointed to an important, non-elective office he shall be submitted to the scrutiny and white light of public hearings."

World peace—"The president's impulsive quarter-backing... is far more dangerous than the same tendencies in dealing with domestic matters."

How far does he intend to go? The president's recent international affairs statement mentioning quarantine for aggressors and expressing doubt of peaceful American escape in a world at war "sounds just like what we were told in 1917."

Speech Cut Off

Landon failed to conclude his speech in the 30 minutes allotted radio time and was cut off by the still tinkling. He apologized to radio technicians for overshooting his time and receiving their apologies for having to break in. Officials of the National Broadcasting company said he had been warned he must hold to the 30 minute limit because of a following commercial program.

Landon remained in his office an hour after the conclusion of the speech, taking telephone calls and telegrams whose contents and volume left him obviously jubilant.

Club Assigned to Give Out Football Programs

Members of the Appleton High school Commercial club will distribute programs at the East Green Bay-Appleton grid battle here Saturday. It was announced at a meeting Monday. Plans for a social meeting of club members were discussed.

Masque and Book Club to Sponsor International Tea

An international tea will be held by members of Appleton High school Masque and Book club Thursday afternoon in the school auditorium. Language clubs including the French, German and Latin groups have been invited.

The German club's contribution to the program will be a skit showing German singing and dancing and including an explanation of German science. Hele Dettman, Gladys Froger, Mary Rose Konrad, Marion Lutz, Ruth Mewald, Jean NuOffer and Shirley Russler will sing "Auf Wiedersehen" and "Zwei Herzen."

Ewald Biedenbender, John Killoren, Charles Mader and Harwood Orblison will sing "Die Wacht am Rhein." A German waltz will be presented by Dorothy Hellig and Florence Mielke. James Donohue will give a talk on German science.

U. S. Envoy Warns Chinese to Keep Planes From Zone

heavy explosives on the Chinese airbase at Nanking and Chinese raided Japanese lines about Shanghai.

Japs Transfer Planes

Chinese air and artillery attacks on the Japanese landing field in the Yangtze area of the International Settlement were believed responsible for transfer of a number of Japanese planes to a more remote landing field near Woosung, 12 miles down the Whangpoo river from Shanghai.

Authoritative foreign military observers told of one instance in which a clever Chinese flier destroyed seven Japanese bombers at the Yangtze airbase.

They said four Japanese bombers returning from a raid inland were joined by a fifth plane just as night fell. The fifth plane swung into formation with the others and switched on navigation lights when they did.

The four planes landed, but the fifth turned out to be a Chinese raider. The Chinese pilot soared overhead at less than 500 feet elevation and dropped two heavy bombs which destroyed the four planes and three others.

Admit Losing 50 Planes

Admitted and authenticated Japanese losses in the Shanghai area total 50 planes. Chinese asserted they have shot down more than 100 Japanese aircraft.

Japanese authorities served notice on foreign consuls that Japanese decline to assume responsibility for the safety of neutral automobiles traveling from Shanghai to Nanking.

British consular officials told their nationals that trips outside the International Settlement would be undertaken at their own risk. They said that if the consulate were notified of intended trips it would attempt to make arrangements with Japanese for protection of automobiles.

The American consulate said it would undertake to make similar arrangements for Americans.

Automobile Attacked

Yesterday Japanese warplanes machine gunned a civilian automobile on the Nanking-Shanghai road. The occupants, including an Italian naval lieutenant, escaped injury.

Dispatches from North China quoted a Japanese spokesman as saying Chinese probably had received heavy reinforcements in Shansi province. He said Chinese were attacking Japanese supply and communication lines in the region, but added that the Japanese were advancing.

The Japanese North China advance was stopped altogether in some places. In northern Shantung province a Japanese withdrawal was reported.

(The Japanese cabinet in Tokyo approved reductions in government expenses of $9,000,000 for the remainder of the year in an economy move to help meet the cost of fighting in China.)

Lee was taken into custody early Sunday morning.

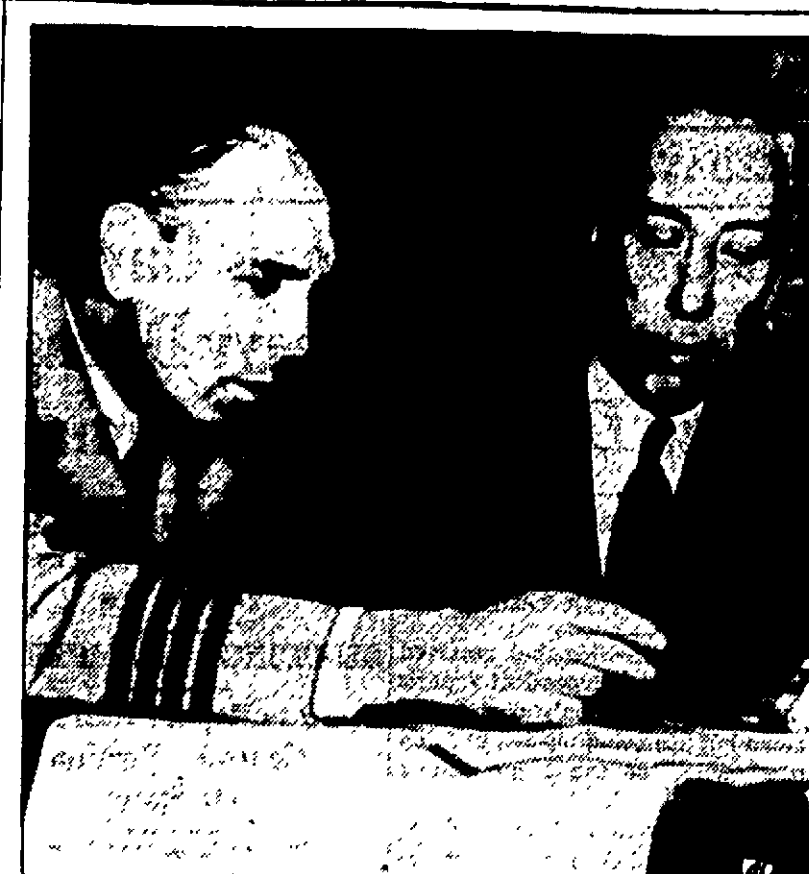

He and committees appointed to make arrangements. Following is the committee: Ruth VanHandel, chairman, Arlene Bohl, Mary Woods and Clifford DePrez, Bruno Krueger and Miss May Webster are faculty advisors.

DESCRIBES FINDING OF DEATH PLANE

Pilot Ralph Johnson is shown here at Salt Lake City, Utah, as he told Major R. W. Schroeder, United Air Lines executive, of reaching the wreckage of one of the line's "Mainliners" and finding all of the 19 occupants dead—the greatest tragedy in the history of American aviation.

Valley Assemblymen "Just Wasted Time" At Special Session

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison — Fox River Valley members of the Wisconsin assembly this week returned to their law offices, farms and other occupations far from satisfied with the results of their efforts in the 31 day special session of the state legislature which ended in tumult last Saturday.

Helps Two Bills

He supported, however, the department of commerce bill, and the fair trades practices act. In fact, Lytle may take some credit for getting the code bill before the legislature. He assisted in organizing the demonstration of code adherents in the capitol, called on Governor LaFollette frequently to urge its submission, and when it was drafted and submitted, he with a handful of his party joined Progressives in a speedy passage of the measure.

Assemblyman Henry Hupfaut, conservative Democrat representing Calumet county, said little, and voted consistently with a losing opposition bloc. Frank J. Lingelbach, Oconto county Democrat, whose county is plagued with financial troubles due to excessive relief and social security demands, fell in with Progressives to pass the relief bill, and also supported the revision of the old age pension law.

To Assemblyman Leo T. Niemuth, representative of populous Winnebago county, the session was also far from satisfactory, although he supported the department of commerce bill in the hope that the new agency may help to provide new industry for his rapidly declining city of Oshkosh, which he helps to run as a member of the city council.

Seeks Senate Seat

A quiet, unostentatious chap, Niemuth is carefully laying plans for a bid for the state senatorship from his district, now held by Senator Pierce R. Morrissey, Democrat. A Republican, he frowns on suggestions for a coalition with Democrats, confident that Republicans in his district represent a strong majority.

It was Francis A. Yindra, young Manitowoc assemblyman, who started a state one morning with charges that Progressives had been drinking liquor on the floor of the assembly chamber during a hectic session the previous night. Yindra, bitterly opposed to Progressive policies, will make the best of the publicity his charges produced in next year's campaign, which may see him trying for the state senate.

In sharp contrast to Yindra during the session was Vilfredo David Sigman of Two Rivers, Farmer-Labor-Progressive leader, labor organizer, and one of the Progressive floor-leaders in the sessions he attended. Sigman divided his time between lawmaking and the labor activities in Manitowoc. Two Rivers and other cities during the legislative session. He supported unanimously all of the LaFollette proposals.

The chief criticism of Door county's Frank N. Graess was directed at what he termed the "strong-arm" methods of the LaFollette majority. Graess supported some of the bills which were passed, but denounced repeatedly the manner in which they were rushed to passage.

Assemblyman Albert D. Shimke, Kewaunee county Democrat, denounced the actions of the assembly, voted in opposition consistently.

Assemblyman Harold A. Lytle, Green Bay Democrat, found some merit in the administration's program, but generally followed his Democratic mates in strict opposition to the demands for speed, the limitation of debate, and the lack

Production Credit Body to Meet at Waupaca Armory

St. Paul Man to be Principal Speaker at Annual Session

Waupaca — Joseph S. Montgomery, secretary of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul, Minn., will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Waupaca Production Credit association which is to be held Friday in the armory. The meeting will begin with a free lunch at noon to which all farmers are invited and Mr. Montgomery will address the meeting at 2 o'clock discussing the operations of the production credit bodies and the problems of farm financing.

The Waupaca association, one of 21 PCA units in Wisconsin, although the association is nationwide in scope, was organized in the spring of 1934 and includes four counties, Waushara, Marquette, Outagamie and Waupaca. In three and a half years it has loaned $370,000 to farmers of these four counties and at present has $135,000 out in loans to nearly 325 farmers. The association was established to provide farmers a loan which they will repay their loans promptly, with credit adapted to their needs, whether it be to buy cattle, refinance debts or to make repairs or improvements on farm property or to buy feed, seed, farm machinery or equipment.

In this territory most loans are repaid on a basis of cream check payments. In many cases the farmer agrees to pay 20 per cent of his cream check to the loan body.

P. H. Darling is secretary of the Waupaca PCA. While the PCA tries to retire loans in three years' time, this is not a requirement. Loans are made at 5 per cent, renewable annually and a farmer must take a $5 share of stock for each $100 he borrows, but this share of stock can be sold back to the association when the loan is repaid if the farmer so desires. This is voting stock and gives the farmer a vote in the affairs of his association.

The local association receives its money at 2 per cent from the St. Paul Production Credit Corporation, works on a 3 per cent margin loaning to farmers at 5 per cent. The St. Paul office gets eastern capital from the sale of bond issues and debentures.

Officers of the local credit body are Almo J. Larson, town of Farmington, president; Chris Miller, Plainfield, vice president; P. H. Darling, Waupaca, secretary; and the board of directors includes, besides Larson and Miller, Charles Hanke, Fremont; Robert Doersch, Seymour, and Chester Kempley, Montello.

Branch offices are in Hortonville with F. B. Straton, secretary, and Clintonville, with Arthur Campbell in charge.

Four Appleton Men at Accountants' Meeting

E. A. Dettman, Ray Pusch, Burke Piper, and W. J. Schenck attended a meeting of the Northern Chapter of the Wisconsin Society of Certified Public Accountants this week in Green Bay.

Accountants from Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Marinette, and Manitowoc were at the meeting. Fred Asell of the Anslu Chemical company of Marinette discussed the accounting problems of the industry and L. C. McKesson of the same company gave a paper on the manufacture of sulphur dioxide.

and went home with the conviction that Governor LaFollette and his Progressive legislative leaders are "insincere politicians."

Handrich for Bills

A Waupaca county farmer, Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, was the only whole-hearted supporter from the northeast district besides Sigman for the administration's program. He helped a group of other farmer-Progressives to persuade the governor to include farm legislation in his program, for he maintained, farmers' interests in the legislature during 1937 suffered to the advantage of organized labor.

Burly, belligerent Paul Fuhrman of Shawano county, who makes but two or three speeches every term, was the only member of the Progressive majority who voted as he pleased. Pressure from the executive office and the coaxing of his colleagues failed to bring him into the fold of loyal members who unquestioningly did the bidding of Governor LaFollette. While he voted for the administration's program most of the time, Fuhrman, like another insurgent Progressive in the senate, John E. Cashman of Denmark, cast his ballot independently.

Yachtsmen Beach Boats Before Storms Appear

All but three of the 16 yachts at the Appleton Boat club have been taken from the water and either sheltered in boat houses or protected with coverings for the winter.

Within the next few days, the entire fleet will be out of water. Most yachtsmen on the Fox river, respecting experiences of past years, aim to have their boats high and dry by Oct. 15, the arbitrary "deadline" for stormy weather.

Farmers Still Can Get Payments for Building Up Soil

Time This Year Extends to Nov. 1. County Agent Advises

There still is a week left during which Outagamie county farmers may earn payments for soil building practices, such as liming and fertilizing, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent. The time this year extends to Nov. 1. Payments for liming amount to $1.25 a ton within the allowance limits for the farm.

Credit can also be obtained for fertilizers applied to non-crop pasture land or to old hay meadows or new seedings that were established on fields where no soil depleting were harvested in 1937, or will be harvested in 1938, according to word from C. J. Chapman, extension specialist in soils in the college of agriculture.

Among the credits allowed for the use of fertilizer in the so-called soil-building payment practices are $1.80 an acre for the application of 300 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate at the rate of 240 pounds an acre, or 105 pounds of 45 per cent phosphate. For those using potash, recommendations for which include the use of potash along with phosphate for top-dressing work this fall, a payment of $1.00 an acre may be made for each 100 pounds of 50 per cent muriate of potash or its equivalent.

Chapman is suggesting that on all of the sandy loam soils in the state where fertilizers are needed, that a combination such as 0-20-20 or 0-9-27 be applied at the rate of about 200 pounds to the acre. On the silt and clay soils, he suggests the use of either the 0-20-10 or 0-20-20 mixtures. On soil where there is plenty of potash but where the phosphate content is low, he recommends the use of 200 pounds of 20 per cent super-phosphate to the acre. For the black bottom meadows where red canary grass or alsike and timothy are grown, he recommends either 0-9-27 mixture or potash alone. On timothy or grass land meadows, where nitrogen is needed, Chapman believes it is well to wait until spring to apply the fertilizer.

Landon's Speech Suggests Contest With Hoover for Active Party Leadership

Washington—(U)—Alf M. Landon's return to the political was suggested to some observers today the possibility of a spirited contest between him and Herbert Hoover for active leadership of the Republican party.

The Kansan's radio speech criticizing Roosevelt policies came in the midst of efforts by the former president to rally sentiment for a mid-term party convention next year.

Landon has been reported cool to the Hoover convention idea and did not mention it last night.

While he was speaking, the National Republican club in New York deferred a vote on unreserved endorsement of the proposal. The resolution, offered by former Representative Williams S. Bennett, brought this objection from Andrew J. Humphrey, a charter member:

"Mr. Hoover and Mr. Landon are on opposite sides of this question, and there is rivalry for control of the next regular convention. We should steer clear at this time of any unreserved action."

Meeting Nov. 5

The Republican National committee will meet in Chicago Nov. 5 to vote on holding the unusual convention, which would be a prelude to the 1938 congressional campaign.

(Absent from the session will be George A. Ball, millionaire industrialist, who resigned last night as committee man from Indiana. The 74-year-old committee member said he could not take part in the campaign "with that attention and vigor conditions call for.")

Opposition to the convention proposal was expressed yesterday by Senator Borah (R-Idaho) and former Senator Watson of Indiana.

The former president suggested that a policy committee of distinguished Republicans be selected by the national committee, and other leaders and draft "a declaration of fundamental convictions" for the convention to debate.

Landon's Position?

There have been reports Landon would prefer that the convention adopt a platform dealing specifically with current issues, such as he discussed last night in his first major speech since the 1936 election. Observers noted a close parallel between Landon's criticisms of Roosevelt policies and those voiced from time to time by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.). Landon stressed demands for revision of the social security and Wagner labor laws, which Vandenberg has been seeking.

As in the 1936 campaign, Landon said many of the Roosevelt objectives were good, but he objected to the methods.

Congressional observers also noted a similarity between Landon's criticism of the Roosevelt policy with reference to Japan and that voiced in a statement by Senator Johnson (R-Calif.).

Both asked in effect how far the president intends to go in his proposal to quarantine the Far East war.

Expect G. O. P. Attack

These two expressions, together with similar comments from other Republicans, foreshadowed an attack on the coming special session on administration course in the Sin Japanese conflict.

(President Roosevelt said in statement yesterday, apparently replying to Johnson, that the United States will enter the nine-power conference on the Far Eastern crisis without any commitments other governments.)

Senator Davis (R-Pa.), one of the few Republican legislators in the capital, said:

"The speech calls to the attention of the people the 'constitution' weakness of the New Deal administration under Mr. Roosevelt. It seems to me he made clear the Corcoran and Cohen and the other brain trusters of the administration have supplanted the Democratic house and senate leaders in the drafting of this new deal legislation."

La Follette's Stand

Senator LaFollette (W-Wis.) took issue with Landon's criticism of the government reorganization bill.

"It is clear if there is to be government reorganization," LaFollette declared, "and no one who has studied the present setup can deny there is urgent need for the power must be given to the executive to effectuate the reorganization."

General Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, replied by radio to Landon's speech, calling it "no more convincing than in 1936." Johnson asked for restoration of "The New Deal of '32."

ATTEND CONVENTION

E. A. Walther left today to attend the convention of the State Association of Insurance Agents at Oshkosh. The convention is being held today and tomorrow.

President Cause Of Market Panic, Lawrence States

Undistributed Surplus Tax Responsible for Stock Decline

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — The "Roosevelt panic," as it probably will be called in stock market history, may be short-lived or the forerunner of a fundamental business depression, depending on how one man feels about it. For if Mr. Roosevelt is responsible for the panic, he alone can end it and bring about a change for the better in the national psychology.

Judging by the way the telephone wires have been buzzing behind the scenes these last 48 hours, the New York viewpoint, generally speaking, is that Mr. Roosevelt brought on the panic by forcing up prices of goods and taxes faster than the consumer could absorb them, that labor troubles are of his making and that the administration has finally baited business so much as to destroy its incentive and its morale.

The suggestion as to what Mr. Roosevelt should do about it would be somewhat amusing if the whole situation didn't have a tragic aspect. The New York idea is that Mr. Roosevelt should acknowledge the error of his ways, issue a statement of reassurance virtually conceding that he has been wrong, and promising Wall street that he intends to be good from now on.

The chances of Mr. Roosevelt admitting that anything he ever did was wrong or that his economics could possibly have been mistaken are about as remote as his asking Herbert Hoover for advice on how to make prosperity seem to be "just around the corner." There exists in Washington, among the New Dealers, to be sure, a somewhat chastened feeling. There is worry aplenty. The government economists are issuing opinions privately every hour for the benefit of nervous officialdom and there is a good deal of sensible conversation going on back and forth among the Joe Kennedy type of the administration's friends in New York in the hope of persuading Mr. Roosevelt to create a reassuring atmosphere by public statements, propaganda, etc.

"Gamblers' Responsible" But it must be realized that the New Deal doesn't think it is wrong and fundamentally the opinion is expressed here that the reports of some officials about the stock market decline that the market was too high anyway, that "gamblers" are largely responsible for the break and that things will right themselves in due time.

Curiously enough, one has to go back to the Hoover administration to find the parallel. Mr. Hoover thought the "bears" had concentrated against him to bring about a stock market decline and it was through his initiative that the famous stock market investigation was begun by the senate which ultimately brought out most of the scandal that furnished the background or impetus for the passage later on of the securities and exchange act.

Professional bears or bulls are not responsible for the stock market decline and the administration knows better, though outwardly it likes to blame the Wall Streeters. The truth is the market is a reflection of a steady decline over several months in the business morale of the country due to New Deal experiments and mistakes. The decline started when, last March, it was discovered that the estimates of tax receipts were wrong and that the undistributed surplus tax was causing such a bad situation inside business.

This correspondent has the doubtful satisfaction of having written on the day after the undistributed surplus tax was promulgated that, when the next panic came, the principal cause would be found to be the tax on thrift and the tax on sound business judgment which the administration had introduced in the guise of revenue yields and social reform.

Today the undistributed surplus tax stands convicted of failing to produce the needed revenue and of having raised Cain with the whole structure of business. If Mr. Roosevelt, by this time, however, does not know what cock-eyed economics he has been subjected to by some of his so-called advisers, it is not likely that the stock market decline will educate him on the point.

The fact is, however, Mr. Roosevelt has been getting ready to make a few concessions to the conservative or sound point of view. He has been letting it be known that he will agree to the revision of the capital gains tax and also the undistributed surplus tax, if they can be worked out on a "face-saving" basis.

Will Cut Expenses

Likewise, the president is going to drive hard to cut expenses or at least to improve the budget showing between now and the end of the fiscal year. Also it is said on good authority that he is getting ready to put a bit of "pressure" on the labor leaders to cut out some of the unnecessary interruptions in production due to labor strife.

Taken all in all, there is a bit of a scared feeling here, but it is not what Wall Street imagines it to be. It is true the president has been hammering away at business so long that he has brought about discouragement. Even if one agreed with the social objectives of the president and even if one assumed that his economics might some day work when human nature is changed, it must be admitted that Mr. Roosevelt is making the error of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. For there can be no big increase in tax receipts unless business prospers and has incentive to expand its activities and create jobs. And incentive and enthusiasm are not incurred by hitting a prospective enthusiast with a brick every time there is a "fire-side chat" or a message to congress.

So long as the capitalist system exists and there is no wholesale confiscation of property or introduction of communism, the government must depend on individual initiative. The New Deal has gone relatively little to make business men more social minded because it hasn't proved how they can be social minded and earn a fair return, too. The imposition of taxes and the arbitrary rise in labor costs, together with the announcement last week that wage and hour legislation is to be superimposed on top of all the other grief and woes of the economic system, did not indicate that Mr. Roosevelt was much concerned about the morale of the business world or that he is as yet disillusioned in his theory that business men will work just as hard with a punch in the jaw as they will with a pat on the back.

So while New York stew in the agony of a market decline which is having some psychological repercussions already in a business way, the question is whether Washington is at all aware that there must be a change. My judgment is that Mr. Roosevelt will move sufficiently to the right in the next few weeks to help values to be restored, but when he thinks the patient is sufficiently convalescent, he will undertake the next surgical operation of his social reform program.

Meanwhile, the stock market panic itself may have some beneficial effects. It may stay the hand of labor for a while. It may cause those who have been advancing prices unduly to pause and consider the possible drop in volume. It may also perhaps wake up the administration to the importance of renewing its efforts to increase the volume of transactions growing out of world trade. On the whole, the trend in business should be upward till the end of the year, and when congress gets back there may be less militancy toward the business world, and less of a disposition to quarrel with the sensible demands that are coming from all quarters in the business world for a well-rounded and well balanced tax revision program.

YOUNGSTERS FORM CANDY CORPORATIONS AT SCHOOLS

ADOLPH HUEY QUINN TAKES RHODE ISLAND

For the time being Rhode Island has taken the place of Louisiana, and its governor, Quinn by name, has thrown the mantle of Huey Long around his shoulders, forgetful that Huey finally got the bullet he so long courted.

But Rhode Island is not an exception and neither is Louisiana. They are both symbols of the road we travel. We are destroying the old landmarks, shuffling off the curse of the horse and buggy days, and are on our way to new Elysian fields. If they happen to be soggy with blood, well, what of it?

Rhode Island legalizes a certain sort of race track betting. The state steps in and runs the betting, paying all the money bet to the winners but keeping a decent percentage for itself. The system is as good as any gambling system that may be devised, and during the high season it brings Rhode Island more than a million dollars a month. It is the head of one of these racing tracks, O'Hara by name, who is dueling with the governor. And the strange thing is that Rhode Island's packed supreme court, and packed by Quinn, refuses to do his bidding.

The feud is a personal and a political one. Quinn and O'Hara just do not like each other. Quinn sought to put O'Hara out of his position as head of a race track. Quinn failed when the courts upheld O'Hara. It may be that O'Hara is only as straight as a corkscrew. It is a cinch, however, that whatever he is he has nothing on Quinn.

Do you suppose that Mr. Quinn will obey even his own packed court?

Not in these stirring times. What good is there in being elected governor if there is anyone in the state who has any authority besides yourself? So Quinn, official head of the National Guard, trots out his buglers and the big keys are turned in armory doors, the court is defied and O'Hara with it, and America has before it the fine example of democracy kicked in the groin by a little whiff of the rodeo to office on the national spending spree.

In a sense the Post-Crescent is indebted to Mr. Quinn. He has given us a living demonstration of the claim here made on numerous occasions that when you paralyze that part of the American system consisting of an independent tribunal to adjust disputes between others you put us back exactly on a plane with Stalin and Hitler. The one who controls the guns and the uniforms has the authority. Intelligence, honesty, power, patience are all thereby abolished. Rhode Island today is just another central American state or something on the order of Peru or Brazil. Were it long to continue upon this course it would reflect a perfect picture of Nicaragua's history, for wrong begets wrong, violence always invites violence, and the more intelligent a people are the more certainly this will result.

If O'Hara's race track can be closed up just because the governor doesn't like him and despite a supreme court ruling that he has the right to continue then Mr. O'Hara has just one line or recourse although that line has several branches. He may, directly or indirectly, assassinate Quinn, or he may set up a private army of his own to do battle with the National Guard. He must do something. Only the craven will submit to such outlawry. Yet in a sense it must be said that the trouble is not entirely with Quinn. He is just a buccaneer sailing the political seas of opportunism. Fundamentally the trouble is with the people. Actually the blame for nearly all political wrong belongs on the people's doorstep.

For today, you know, we make a practice in many places in this country of electing men to office not for the purpose of forming and continuing an intelligent system of laws but for the purpose of amusing us. We elect actors and minstrels, not law givers and statesmen.

Could Caruso arise from that mausoleum in Naples and sail back to America we do not know what office could be good enough for him. He has such a beautiful, soul-inspiring tenor voice.

ANOTHER PANTO ALREADY?

There are some bad signs on America's industrial skies, and signs not attributable to war nor the threat of war.

There is the frittering away of building orders, the depletion of the steel backlog, and the recession in freight movements, which combined is of telling significance for the future just as the same combination is of material consequence in the present.

These clouds have not come up in a moment. They have been gathering steadily for several months. But so interested has Washington become in training new cheer leaders for the administration that no attention has been paid to these natural results of the wildest financial policies America has ever known.

Business and industry have plugged and plodded along as best they could, weighed down by taxes and disputes, all fomented from Washington without rhyme or reason, and certainly without necessity. But there is an end to all things. And the sooner we face that end, perhaps, the better.

Meanwhile the high-jinks and the revelry continue at Washington. More and more men are hired at salaries from $500 to $1,000 a month whose principal occupation is writing speeches for the President, digging up alibis for the President, or finding new ways to spend money.

Each year in which we find Mr. Roosevelt promising that we will live within our income his deficit mounts over the preceding year. But if you pay out the millions to satisfy and keep in office your cheering politicians you will have just so many more justifying Black appointments and similar blunders.

There is a precedent for the conduct at Washington. And Washington is very particular about precedents.

Didn't Nero fiddle while Rome burned?

VITTORIO RETURNS TO ROMA
Vittorio Mussolini is returning to Italy because his trip to America has not been a success.

Although upon the surface the young man was condemned for saying of his Ethiopian bombing experience, "To me war is a sport, the most glorious sport in existence," a declaration he afterwards denied, the American attitude is not based upon a single sentence or a casual statement but, we think, runs much deeper, and in so running reflects credit upon the country.

With Vittorio Mussolini America has no quarrel. He is a young and healthy man of animal spirits brought up under a regime that may fairly be held accountable for such opinions as he holds. Our own Washington, when a young man of 22, wrote his mother after his first experience in battle, "I heard the bullets whistle and, believe me, there is something charming in the sound."

The stiff and coldly formal treatment accorded young Mussolini by warm Californians, men and women of wealth and position, was merely the natural American reaction to a swaggering, swashbuckling tyranny that could not be forgotten or overlooked for long even with the demands of civility and courtesy first on the list. This attitude is the natural American attitude toward Fascism. It probably has resulted as much from tradition as from reason and intelligence.

When the American attempts to picture himself as denying to others the simplest rights which we all hold most dear he finds difficulty in warming up or long continuing companionable association with those so closely related to the purpose of destroying things almighty precious to others.

AN AMERICAN BUSINESS WAY

Since the start of the republic men have numerous times but unsuccessfully attempted to launch a strictly picture magazine.

But a while ago the capable and energetic editors of Time bought Life out of the bankruptcy court with the avowed purpose of changing it into a picture magazine, and so high was their name for turning out periodicals that were worth while that they could not print the new magazine fast enough to supply the demand.

Almost overnight other picture magazines crowded for space at the news desks. Photo, Pic and Look suddenly seemed to realize there was room for a picture magazine. They will probably end up by glutting the market. But that seems to be the American way.

The same unrestrained seeking after success becomes evident in almost every line of endeavor. It was so in the automobile world. It has been so in every manufacturing line.

In the end the sturdiest and best will survive but until that time arrives our stream of commerce becomes littered with the wreckage of ill put together or ill presented efforts.

It is never very difficult for a man with an idea that seems presentable to obtain ample financial backing in America. The difficulty is in turning expectation into reality.

All available houses and apartments in Manila, P. I., are being filled by refugees from Shanghai.

DEER DREAMS

'Twas a dream I dreamed last evening,
And it seemed vivid and clear,
Me and One-Eyed Pete was hunting
On a hill-side bleak and scar.
Where the deer trails was a-winding
And the saw-tooth spruce tops sway,
Sap-suckers was a-pecking,
And a meat bird and a jay
Was the only living creatures
As far as I could see,
Where we stood and watched the run-ways,
Old One-Eyed Pete and me.

And then the morning's quiet
Was broken by a sound,
A thrashing in the thicket
And the baying of a hound.
'Twas then I saw some antlers.
The buck took in his stride,
Obstructions, brush and wind-falls
In leaps high two rods wide.
And straight up that there, run-way
Where One-Eyed Pete stood guard,
I held my breath and waited,
My heart was pounding hard.

No gun-shot broke the silence
No fusillade of lead,
No reverberating echoes
But silence reigned instead.
And then I sashayed over
Where One-Eye had his stand
'Didn't you see that one?'
I tried to understand.
'Sure, I saw him streaking.'
Old One-Eye says, 'but heck,
I wouldn't shoot at that one.
He'll break his own damn neck.'

Once more we stood in silence
Old One-Eyed Pete and me,
A meat bird and a blue jay
Was all that we could see.

—Ezekiel Sodbuster

That really should be all for one day, but we're going down a little farther to be sure to meet the bottom of the column. Anyway, I am all of a sudden reminded about the discussions involving the stockmarket disorders of the past few days.

It seems that the anti-Roosevelts are blaming the entire affair on the president's errors and political monkey shines. The pro-Roosevelts are blaming it on people trying to make trouble for Roosevelt.

Anyway you look at it, it's still Roosevelt.

The feeling now is that by the time the people get wise to Frankie, it will be too late.

If you are interested in a program that puts the merry berry on the pomposity of some announcers and the too-too tiredness of some women radio speakers, I recommend "Bughouse Rhythms" at 6:30 Friday evening on WMAQ. It is a fine burlesque of radio by radio.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE CROPS WERE GOOD!

Because the crops were good,
The kids are all togged out;
The boys have gone to college
To learn their way about.
Ma went up to the city
To buy a parlor rug.
And I got me a trotter
By tradin' in a plug.

Because the crops were good,
The lamps shine out at night,
And Ma and I keep thinkin'
They shed a brighter light!
We spend our evenin's sittin'
With a new catalog.
We even bought a collar
For our old shepherd dog!

Because the Lord is good,
The barns are filled and we
Are snug and warm, and feel
A blest security.
Potatoes fill the pit;
The shed is piled with wood,
And we know what Joy is
Because the Lord is good!

WATCHING FOR THE HELL-DIVER TO COME UP

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

COSMETIC HYGIENE

What you put on your skin has a good deal less to do with your complexion than what you put in it. What you put in it depends not only upon what you eat and drink or receive as medicine but also upon what you breathe, what sort of clothing you wear, how well ventilated your abode is, how much exercise you get daily, how much sunshine or skyshine you give your hide the year around.

The coarsest, roughest skins, the poorest complexions, are generally those that get the least sunshine or skyshine. The skin of the patient under the modern sunbath treatment, say for tuberculosis of joint, bone, lymph node, as it gradually acquires tan at the same time becomes beautifully soft and fine in texture and free from the blemishes that commonly appear on the skin that is seldom exposed to sunshine. Quaint obsessions against imaginary harm done by exposure to sunlight keep too many misguided folk from enjoying the advantage of the cheapest and best of all cosmetics.

Some young persons have an old skin, thanks to bad hygiene. Some older persons have a young skin. A young skin has sufficient oil, secreted by the sebaceous glands, to keep it soft, warm and pliant. Any old skin lacks this natural skin oil and is dry, harsh, rough, irritable. A young skin may be vigorously washed with soap and water daily. An old skin should be cleansed rather with a bland oil such as olive oil, sweet almond oil or sesame oil or with pure freshly made cold cream — cold cream made by any pharmacist after the formula for Ointment of Rose Water (Unguentum Aquae Rosae) in the U. S. or the British Pharmacopoeia. It is a mistake for one with a young skin to begin using creams or oily or greasy cosmetics of any kind. It is unwise for one with an old skin to use soap and water, or in some circumstances even water, for cleansing the face.

Old skins give more trouble in winter, not because of the cold, but because the indoor air in winter is usually excessively dried out by artificial heating and the skin suffers as do book bindings, growing plants, musical instruments and furniture. In the winter season an old skin needs a daily ration of oil to keep it in more supple condition. But air conditioning is the best protection for old skins, or at least provision for the evaporation of several gallons of water in the heated air every day. How to maintain healthful humidity is described in a monograph which will be sent on request if you inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address.

Dust, grime, soil or dirt on the skin do little or no harm. Often the means used to remove them may be more injurious to the complexion. Contrary to a popular belief, dirt, soil, grime or dust on the skin is not a cause of blackheads or pimples.

Plain soap, not medicated, is probably the best of all antiseptics or disinfectants to use on the skin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Too Much Salt
My sister puts a large amount of salt in all her food. She is pale and thin and never feels the heat no matter how hot it is. What is the effect of using so much salt? (J. G.)

Answer—Too much salt retains too much water in the body tissues, makes them flabby and enemic. It also interferes with the absorption and utilization of food.

Good Old Winter Time
I work out of doors and the winters here are cold. Friends tell me to wear woolen underwear, cap and heavy jacket or I'll suffer later in life with rheumatism. I always wear enough to be comfortable, but this does not include woolens. (D. M.)

Answer—I'd do as you do. Wool or part wool underwear and stockings are all right if one finds them more comfortable. The "rheumatism" bugaboo, is just that.

Epilepsy
Man died of cerebral hemorrhage caused by epilepsy. He had no signs of this disease until he was 35 years old. No history of epilepsy in his family. His five children are grown up, normal. Would their children be likely to inherit epilepsy? (S. E. M.)

Answer—Nature and cause of epilepsy still more or less conjectural. Alcoholism, insanity or feeble-mindedness may be factor in heredity. Fact that condition does not appear before adult age favors conclusion it is not a heritable defect in this instance. (Copyright, 1937)

LIBRA
If October 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m., from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m., and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Any indiscretion this day in the way of gourmandizing may result in our paying a heavy penalty. The stomach, due to prevailing influences, must not be subjected to any abuse. Take the advice of friends cautiously, for they may not be thoroughly familiar with the details of your personal affairs. Do not put yourself in the position of discovering it is not over advisable to tell strangers all that you know. A silent tongue seldom get its owner into trouble. You do not have to depend upon any one person this day because you are likely to find that what some one refuses, some one else is liable to do, if you only will persevere in going after what you want. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have the matrimonial bee distracting their thoughts, may discover it is much better to say too little than too much this day.

If a woman and October 21 is your birthday, your dietion ought to be exceptionally good, and your hearing very keen. You are likely to have very methodical, and any semblance of disorder probably irritates you to the nth degree. You may make some mistakes, but ought to have the happy faculty of being able to correct them without much trouble. Your sympathetic and generous nature should win you many friends and help you socially. You may be tempted to try to "keep up with the Joneses" but if you are wise you will make it a point to live within your own income. The lecture platform, stage, radio broadcasting or work of an educational nature may provide the opportunity you need to make you an outstanding figure in your community. Through marriage, it would seem, your problems will be solved and great happiness found. The child born on October 21, must have impressed upon it, as

A Bystander In Washington

This is the second article in which Preston Grover, Washington columnist, analyzes the New York mayoralty campaign as an important segment in the national political picture.

BY PRESTON GROVER

New York—For four years, while the Democratic organization was living the abundant political life nationally, it has been suffering from hunger in New York City.

That was a major contributing factor in the highly publicized entrance of Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley and Democratic Senator Robert F. Wagner into the mayoralty campaign in support of Jeremiah T. Mahoney.

The difficulty for the Democratic organization in New York City has been that, in spite of party successes nationally, chunky Fiorello La Guardia has been the mayor. And Mr. La Guardia is not a Democrat.

Nominally he is a Republican; but he is not really a Republican either, in the sense of being a strongly loyal party man. In fact, he has been at least as sparing in his aid to the Republican cause as to Democrats.

And that has put both parties on the spot.

New Deal Issue Out

Democrats could make no use of La Guardia, despite his friendliness to the New Deal, in putting their own city organization on its feet. So they had to set out to beat him. Tammany Democrats wanted to beat him with their own candidate, Senator Copeland, but the senatorial physician lost in both primaries when running for the Republican nomination as well as in his own party.

Mahoney, a calmly disposed example of good health and active living, was Farley's favorite as the man to put La Guardia under. He won in the primary, and Tammany tardily came around to help.

It was part of Republican strategy to avoid a fight on the issue of the New Deal. President Roosevelt carried New York City last fall with a margin of 1,300,000 to spare. So Republicans settled on La Guardia, a New Deal supporter, as their candidate. For all practical purposes, that took the New Deal issue out of the race. It gave both candidates a New Deal label.

The result was that Mahoney had to direct his fire at La Guardia's administration of the city. That has been going on. Much praise has been heaped on La Guardia as a reform mayor. Besides he has had the benefit of all the federal funds poured into the city for relief, public works.

Lewis Speech Backfires

But Mahoney has had two breaks his way. First was when the Republicans, by adroit maneuvering, fastened a wholly Republican ticket upon La Guardia's coat tails. That gave the campaign some semblance of an out-and-out Democratic-Republican race. New York City has been Democratic so long that this was all to Mahoney's advantage.

The second break was when John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chieftain, spoke out in favor of La Guardia. There are times when politicians wish their political friends would remain quiet.

So bitter has been the C. I. O. A. F. L. fight within the ranks of labor that when Lewis announced his support of La Guardia, it drove some A. F. L. support away. How much is debatable.

Political commentators within the city who earlier had conceded Mahoney not much chance, began revising their forecasts. The betting odds shaded off. And La Guardia himself abandoned his campaign of inactivity and began a belated speaking tour.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Kiehoefer and daughter, Helen, attended the Nelson-Powell wedding at Clintonville Friday evening.

O'Brien Services

Stephensville — Burial services were conducted at Milwaukee Sunday morning for Joseph O'Brien, a former resident of this locality, and the body was brought here to the Catholic cemetery for burial. Those who attended the services at the grave included: Mr. and Mrs. Will O'Brien and family, Shiocton; Mr. and Mrs. John Casey, Misses Mary and Katherine Casey, Mrs. G. A. Jolin, Thomas and Katherine Kelley, Stephensville.

Mitzi Green. You could have knocked Miss Evans down with a whisper when Mitzi came out with the doll.

George Abbott, usually the most affable of men, doesn't like visitors during play rehearsals. Whenever a caller sticks his head in the theatre, Abbott scowls worse than Dempsey used to when he gave an opponent the once-over.

Apples, Grapes Plentiful This Autumn in State

Estimates Indicate Supplies of Fruit Above Average

A larger than average production of apples and grapes is reported for Wisconsin this year. R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent, has been informed by the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture. Recent estimates indicate that supplies of fruit this year for the nation are generally above average.

Apple growers in Outagamie county are few, Swanson said, and most farmers keep orchards for their own use.

In Wisconsin, growers report that the apple harvest will be about 1,350,000 bushels. A year ago estimates of the crop reporting service showed that the state's production of apples was only about 1,050,000 bushels. The average of the production during the five years 1928-32 is reported at 1,775,000 bushels of apples. Dry weather reduced the size of Wisconsin apples this year, otherwise the crop could have been larger.

With the condition of the grape crop at 81 per cent of normal in Wisconsin at the beginning of the month, it is expected that the state's grape harvest will be about 460 tons. Last year about 320 tons of grapes were estimated to have been harvested in the state, and the service reports that the five-year average is 374 tons.

The nation's apple crop, according to estimates of the United States crop reporting board, is much larger than the average production. This year it is expected that over 200 million bushels of apples will be harvested. The board estimates the grape crop for the nation to be well over two and a half million tons. This production is well over the average reported for 1928-32 and much above the production of last year.

Harvard ranks first in number of alumni prominent in the theater with Columbia university second.

Swanson Will Attend Agricultural Conclave

The Wisconsin Council of Agriculture will hear the viewpoints of national speakers on farm problems at the annual get-together of cooperative farm organizations at Green Bay Oct. 21, 22 and 23. Speakers include the United States Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac; John Brandt, president of the Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., and Charles Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers federation. Dr. Dora Stockman, East Lansing, Mich., a Grange worker, will address a meeting of farm women Friday Oct. 22.

Railroads Raise Round-Trip Fares

Quarter Cent Per Mile Increase for Tickets With Ten-Day Limit

Rail rates on first class round trip tickets with a 10-day limit have made a quarter cent per mile jump, Milwaukee road, North Western, and Soo line ticket offices have reported.

Fares previously computed on the basis of one and one-third times the one-way first class rate are now estimated at one and one-half times the rate. Cost of rail travel per mile, first class round trip, has moved up from two cents to two and one-quarter cents.

For round trip tickets with a six months' limit, the rate has risen to one and two-thirds the one-way fare.

The increase affects only round trip first class tickets and is expected to bring increased revenues of $2,000,000 to member roads of the Western Association of Railroads.

Increased cost of supplies, the 70-cent freight train limitation measure, taxes for railroad retirement, and wage demands were given as factors in the decision to increase the rate.

Grid Guessing Contests Get Lots of Customers

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York.—The two New York tabloid papers, the News and Mirror, and possibly some other papers in other cities, are running football guessing contests for the good of their circulation, the popularity of which may be judged by the fact that the News handled 91,872 guesses last week at the rate of one guess per customer.

The first prize in each case is only $150 and the total of the prize money for each paper is only $250 a week.

This is precisely the way that the great English football pool racket got its start. The thing began as a circulation dodge shortly after the war.

As here, there was no entry fee at first, but the customers hopped to the idea with such enthusiasm that the papers found themselves under an expense for mathematicians and clerks, which cut into the profit on the new circulation. So "wotto-wotto," said the publishers, "this will never do," and imposed a small entry fee. And they purported, at least, to sweeten the prize pot with that portion of the fee money which remained after the legitimate expense of the contest was met.

Possibly some breakage and sweepings adhered to their books, but what do we care?

In 1928, however, by one of those freak book decisions which the courts hand down from time to time, the harmless newspaper guessing contests were declared to be illegal on the ground that they were not a gamble but a competition not based on skill.

Gambling, which is held to be devoid of skill, was legal, however, and, at this point, the court created the most beautiful legal racket in modern times, if you will be good enough to overlook the stock and bond market of our own dear dead era of wonderful nonsense which was slightly felonious around the edges, anyway.

Newspaper Baby Was Turned Over to Promoters

Get this:—Competitions, involving forecasts, to be legal must be based on skill. Gambling enterprises, although innocent of skill, are legal.

So the newspapers lost their baby, which was now turned over to a school of professional promoters, mostly bookmakers, to be fetched up to enormous size and very immoral conditions. The pool racket now employs thousands of tally clerks, mailers and accountants to handle a traffic estimated at 6,000,000 wagers a week.

It turns over a total business estimated at no less than $150,000,000 and possibly as much as $200,000,000 in a season of thirty-six weeks. The rackets claim to reckon their odds strictly on pari-mutuel principles and to deduct not more than 20 per cent for profit and expense, but, for all the law says to the contrary, they may take 99 per cent.

Conscience and business policy are their only guides. It is the racketeers' dream of heaven.

The papers have not mourned overmuch, because the rackets now spend heavily with them in competitive advertising, and the 6,000,000 customers sustain their circulation by their interests in the ads, the football schedules and the results.

The law departments of the News, Mirror and such other papers as conduct football guessing games in this country, may know better, but it has always been my understanding that any guessing contest or other competition for cash prizes which requires the use of a formal coupon and thus requires the customer to buy a paper is deemed to be a lottery and illegal under our postal laws.

Purchase of Paper Held To Be Gambling Stake

The mere purchase price of the paper has been held to constitute a gambling stake, a rather nasty ruling, as it ignores the rich moral and intellectual nutriment of the editorials, the comics, the pictures and the columns. Broadway, Hollywood, and various, all included in the same two cents' worth. It has all the earmarks of a dirty dig.

Skill certainly is no factor in these guessing games, and if the case of the 11-year-old boy who out-guessed a field of 91,872 in the News contest last week is not convincing evidence, then the experience of Paul Gallico when he was sports editor of the News should prove it. Mr. Gallico offered two tickets to the Army-Navy game right next to the general's box as the prize one week and awarded them to an Italian hodgepodge named Giuseppe something who had guessed them all correctly.

But the next Saturday, when he went with his photographer to take Giuseppe's picture, he found the seats occupied by a Mr. Goldfarb and a Mr. Katz in conksin coats, who said they had paid Giuseppe $100 for them. So Mr. Gallico went to Giuseppe's boarding house, and Giuseppe said he knew nothing about football, never had seen a game, and was going to use the $100 to lay off work a whole week and see the 6-day bike race from start to finish.

Republicans to Meet at Oconto

County Leaders to Plan for Membership Drive in Eighth District

Republican county committee chairmen and secretaries of the Eighth congressional district will meet at Oconto on Oct. 28, according to Orville T. Hegner, district chairman.

Plans for a membership drive in the district will be laid at the meeting. The program will be in line with the state membership drive being conducted to strengthen Republican forces. When a county has 2 per cent of the number of voters who balloted in the 1936 presidential election in the county signed, the group will be eligible for a charter membership to be given by the state executive committee.

District meetings of Republican leaders will be held in Manitowoc county in November and in Outagamie county in December. Selection of a congressional candidate will be discussed at the Oconto meeting.

Dixon Off for Scout Meeting at Chicago

Walter Dixon, Appleton scout executive, left today for Chicago to attend a 3-day meeting of scout leaders and field executives of region No. 7. The meetings will open tomorrow morning and close Saturday night.

"The Complete Council Program Made Effective Through Functioning Districts" will be the theme of the meeting. Mowry Smith of Neenah, president of the valley council, will attend one of the sessions at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

10,738 Children Enrolled In County Public Schools

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison.—Outagamie county contributes heavily to the 800,000 persons more than one-fourth of the entire state's population, who are enrolled in state public or private schools and colleges this fall.

According to the Wisconsin Education association, 10,738 students are enrolled in the elementary and secondary schools of Appleton, Kaukauna and other communities and the rural districts of the county, in addition to the large numbers attending colleges and universities.

In the opinion of the association's research statisticians, the total 1937 enrolment in Wisconsin, which is higher than ever before in the state's history, will never be exceeded in the future.

Declining Birth Rate
The association's prophecy on enrolment trends is based upon the fact that the elementary schools of the state already have shown the effects of the declining birth rate and decrease in population of the younger age groups. It points out that rural, state graded, village and city elementary schools in Wisconsin had fewer pupils in 1936 than in 1932, and advance figures indicate a further decrease in the elementary school enrolment this year.

The association notes, however, that the present trend does not indicate that the state has reached a saturation point, educationally speaking. Even at the present time about 30 pupils out of each 100 starting grade school fail to complete the eighth grade, and less than one half graduate from high school. Only about 20 out of every 100 go to college.

"The great problem," says the association, "is to extend educational opportunities to a greater number of young people and see to it that more of them take advantage of the educational opportunities offered by the citizens of Wisconsin."

County Enrollments
School enrolments for other counties in the vicinity of Appleton are reported as follows:

Calumet, rural, 1,439; Chilton, 483; New Holstein, 424.

Manitowoc, rural, 4,621; Manitowoc, 4,126; Two Rivers, 1,531.

Brown, rural, 4,984; Green Bay, 7,349; De Pere, 473.

Waukegan, rural, 4,494; Clintonville, 834; New London, 1,049; Waukegan, 1,034.

Shawano, rural, 4,494; Shawano, 1,174.

Winnebago, rural, 3,036; Menasha, 1,271; Neenah, 2,180; Oshkosh, 8,934.

Outagamie county's total elementary and secondary enrolment is divided among 4,575 rural pupils, 5,164 in the city of Appleton, and 999 in Kaukauna.

All set? listen: HERE'S THE ENGINEERING MUST STORY OF THE YEAR!

Featuring the DYNAFLASH ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING — in the Most Modern Chassis in the World

YOU won't drive a hundred yards in a new Buick without realizing that something marvelously new and different is happening here. It's something that happens in no other car, in no other engine. Speeding through the intake manifold, the fuel charge hurricanes into the cylinder at something like 250 miles an hour.

Leaping to meet it is the piston, with a unique device called a Turbulator built into its face. Then occurs something more than high compression—literally cyclompression—as swirling gasoline vapor is compacted about the spark plug. The spark sets off a fast-size hurricane—and gasoline gives up more performance than it ever gave up in a commercial engine before! This livelier, smarter power might seem enough for engineers to lavish on a car in a single year. But matching DYNAFLASH power in importance is Buick TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING and its arrolite ride. Take a Buick over a railroad crossing—around a curve—over bumps. There's no thud and chatter, no tail-swing or roll; you cover rough going with the silk-smoothness of a panther on the prowl.

All because old-type leaf springs are gone! In their place, each wheel has a soft, shock-smothering cushion of stout coiled steel. Skid risks are blessedly reduced. Rear tires last longer. The whole car handles more easily! That's TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING at work!

If it's power you're after, you'll want Buick's DYNAFLASH engine. If it's comfort, you'll choose the TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ride.

With either you get the other—plus half a score of features your Buick dealer is waiting to describe. See him now—for the engineering "must" story of the year!

Professor Sees Hope for New, United Spain After Close of Civil Conflict

ALL THROUGH HISTORY so far the "people" of Spain have survived great oppression and those of us who love Spain have every hope that out of the terrible upheaval and travail, a new Spain will be born, stronger and more united than before, with a forward look and a disciplined will, and a modern phoenix will rise from the ashes of its funeral pyre, a new and rejuvenated Spain.

This was the note of optimism on which Dr. Charlotte Lorenz, professor of Spanish at Lawrence college, closed her talk on "The Spanish Conflict" before Appleton Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday night at Conway hotel.

However, she pointed out, whichever side wins, the damage that already has been done is well nigh irreparable. In spite of the fact that the insurgents hold more territory than the loyalists, she said, as yet neither side can claim a decided advantage, and the outcome of the war is entirely uncertain. It depends in a large measure, she added, on whether or not foreign intervention continues.

Dr. Lorenz gave the background of the Spanish conflict, showing that Spain is in a strategic position, has large natural resources and is not very densely populated, and therefore is a country which nations looking for expansion would find profitable to control.

She reviewed the history of Spain down to the time of the 1931 elections which went overwhelmingly Socialist and the withdrawal of King Alfonso. Five problems confronted the new government, Dr. Lorenz went on, the acceptance of a constitution, the Catalan question, the army, the church and the agrarian policy. She pointed out that the army and the church had from feudal times been closely linked with the crown.

The land question was the most fundamental problem of all, she stated, and it is necessary to understand it in order to comprehend what is happening today. Three fourths of the Spanish people are dependent directly or indirectly upon agriculture for a living, she said, quoting from Herring's "Spain, Battlefield of Democracy," but the land has been distributed in such unequal fashion as to give a decent living to not more than 10 per cent.

It was the hope for alleviation of their suffering which made the peasants support the Republic and oppose the landlords in whom they saw oppressors, the speaker continued.

Reviews Lineup
Dr. Lorenz reviewed the lineup of the two contending factions as follows: "Back of the insurgents under Franco, the army, the clergy, the land-owners and large industrialists, all the reactionary elements which stand for conservative and traditional policies, for Old Spain; back of the loyalists, the enlightened bourgeoisie, the intellectuals, the working men and the peasants, in other words, socialists, communists, syndicalists and anarchists, that is, the parties which together form the Popular Front, in short, all the elements which stand for democracy, government by the people for the masses, New Spain."

"It would seem clear, then," the speaker said, "that the fundamental issue in the conflict is between fascism, or at least a strong, centralized government by privileged class, versus popular rule or representative government, within Spain itself, regardless of what repercussions it may have in the world outside or in international politics. Regardless of how great or how small the much disputed aid is that has been given to either side by Italy and Germany and Russia, or of what advantage or disadvantage it may be to other countries, the war is not being waged for the purpose of furthering the cause of either fascism or communism in that world at large, propaganda to that effect notwithstanding, but between a medieval, traditional Spain and a modernized Spain."

Dr. Lorenz expressed the belief that if France wins, Italy will not doubt demand rewards in the Mediterranean, that is, the Balearic Isles, and in Spanish Morocco, which would be a danger to France and England. If France continues to receive aid from Italy, she went on, it is very possible that he may win, but even if he does win a military victory, he will probably not have actual control of Spain, for it is doubtful that the rank and file of the populace who are fighting for a "place in the sun" will ever submit again peacefully to a return to a totalitarian or absolutist state and the consequent oppression and neglect, economically, educationally and culturally, of the masses.

If the Loyalists win, the speaker continued, they too will find much to do to deal with the extremists.

BARN DANCE CLIMAXES SEASON AT RIVERVIEW CLUB

Because they were the only people who came in peasant costumes, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Lenfesty, DePere, and Mr. and Mrs. William Buchanan, Appleton, were the center of attraction at the harvest home supper and old-fashioned barn dance Tuesday night at River-view Country club. Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, shown at the right above, were especially visible in the crowd because the gay feathers on their Tyrolean hats were higher than even the tallest guests. Mr. and Mrs. Lenfesty are at the left. Almost as popular as the dance floor, where a Greenville orchestra played, was the table in the living room where two kegs of cider and plates of sugared doughnuts tempted the guests, among them the Misses Frederika and Frances Whiting, shown at the right. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Whiting, Neenah. Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Wolter, chairmen of the party, led the grand march which followed the 6:30 supper and opened the dance. Carl McKee led community singing, and Don Purdy entertained with tricks of magic. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Dykstra to Address Fox Valley Alumni of U. W.

C. A. DYKSTRA, president of the University of Wisconsin will address a meeting of Wisconsin alumni of the Fox river valley Oct. 27 at Conway hotel. The talk will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 to which all state university alumni throughout the valley have been invited.

Reservations for the dinner meeting are to be made with Mrs. C. C. Baker, 35 Bellaire court, Mrs. C. J. White, 1515 S. Alicia drive, or Arthur Benson, 1920 N. Appleton street.

Formerly city manager of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. Dykstra became eleventh president of the University of Wisconsin July 1. Before becoming city manager of Cincinnati, an office which he held for seven years from 1920 to 1927, he achieved recognition both as an educator and administrator. Born Feb. 25, 1883, in Cleveland, Ohio, he received his A.B. degree from the University of Iowa in 1903. He was fellow in history and assistant in political science at the University of Chicago in 1903 and 1904.

President Dykstra taught in private schools in Pensacola, Fla., for two years, and in 1907 became an instructor in history and government at Ohio State university. In 1909 he was made professor of political science and head of the department at the University of Kansas, a post which he held until 1918.

In the latter year he became executive secretary of the Cleveland Civic League, and in 1920 became secretary of the Chicago City club. Two years later, he was made secretary of the Los Angeles City club, a position he held until 1926. From 1923 to 1936 he was also commissioner of the Los Angeles water and power department, and from 1926 to 1930 he was the department's director of personnel and efficiency. During the same year he served as president of the Insurance Plan Building and Loan company.

From 1923 to 1936 he was also professor of municipal administration at the University of California, Manager in 1930.

Mr. Dykstra became city manager of Cincinnati in 1930, and since that time has been recognized as a pioneer in many matters of municipal administration. He achieved particular renown during the Cincinnati flood last year.

In 1932 and 1933 Mr. Dykstra was president of the International Association of City Managers. He was also a member of the executive committee of the U. S. Conference of Mayors and first vice president of the American Political Science association.

Mr. Dykstra was a member of the advisory board of the Public Works administration and of the Ohio advisory committee of the U. S. Employment service. He also served as chairman of the urbanism committee of the National Resources committee.

He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholar, fraternities, and various other honorary societies, and professional organizations. He is a member of the Dutch Reformed church. He has contributed to many periodicals.

The telephone squad which is making an attempt to contact every former university student in this vicinity includes the following: Mrs. Walter Brummert, Mrs. Harold Brown, Mrs. Myrl Davis, Mrs. Benton, Miss Helen Gilman, Mrs. George Maye, Joseph Koffend, Jr., George Cameron, Glenn H. Arthur, Mrs. L. M. Schindler, Mrs. Willard Schenck, Mrs. R. A. Rasch, A. S. Bradford, Mrs. Richard J. White and Mrs. C. C. Baker. The latter is chairman of the reservations committee.

Because there will be many whom the telephone squad will be unable to reach, the committee has asked that anyone who ever attended the University of Wisconsin and who would like to hear President Dykstra get in touch with Mrs. Baker or any member of the committee.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Clarence A. Dykstra, above, president of the University of Wisconsin, will be in Appleton Oct. 27 to speak to alumni of the university from the Fox river valley at a 6:30 dinner at Conway hotel. He also will address a forum meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and service clubs.

DuShane Predicts Early Settlement Of Labor Strife

Says Twice as Many Men Belong to Unions as When Roosevelt Took Office

Predicting an early settlement of the labor civil war between the A. F. of L. and the CIO, Donald DuShane, professor of government at Lawrence college, said in a lecture Tuesday night at Memorial Presbyterian church that there were twice as many persons belonging to unions now as when Roosevelt came into office.

Prof. DuShane's lecture on "Capital and Labor" was the second in the series of five he is giving at the church under the auspices of the Presbyterian Guild. His subject on Nov. 2 will be "The Special Session of Congress, Taxes and the Government Debt."

Starting with a brief history of the background of the American labor movement, beginning with the Knights of Labor and coming up to the present American Federation of Labor, Prof. DuShane continued with a history of labor unions abroad, a history considerably different from that in the United States, he pointed out. He also described the difference between craft and industrial unions, also called horizontal and vertical.

By 1920, Prof. DuShane said, the labor union movement was dying in the United States, the chief reason being the injunction which deprived labor of the boycott, its only method of gaining what it wanted.

The NRA gave labor a new lease on life, he declared. The New Deal, he said, is in favor of unionization of all labor which can be organized and favors the industrial union of the CIO type.

At the conclusion of his talk Prof. DuShane presented some of the current problems of labor, among them jurisdictional strikes and the labor civil war, both of which he minimized; responsibility on the part of labor and respect for agreements; communism; and its political future.

County Police Seeking Town of Hortonville Girl

A check was being made today to see whether the girl is at the home of relatives.

Master Plumbers in Meeting Here Today had the backing of Britain and France although they did not commit themselves.

It seemed that Paris and London preferred to try to dodge any responsibility for the smashup.

The London non-intervention subcommittee, including representatives of all these rival powers, was scheduled to meet this afternoon in what most London newspapers agreed was its final session and with a "thousand-to-one" chance of success at reaching a basis for restoring Spain's war to Spaniards alone.

If the already tattered pact between 27 European nations is discarded, as seemed virtually certain, France and Britain, it was believed, would make good their threat immediately to resume liberty of action.

May Reopen Frontier

Presumably this meant reopening of France's Spanish frontier to shipments of arms to the Valencia government and probably a French warship patrol to see that the Spanish insurgents or Italy do not seize the island of Minorca, in the Balearics which lie directly seaward of France's lines of communication with her African possessions.

Although the inference was that Britain expected France to act first, there was also the implied assurance that London would fully back her.

FOUND SLAIN

Elyria, Ohio—(AP)—Sheriff William F. Grall sped to Marshall, Mich., today to bring back a 19-year-old youth, who he said, had confessed to ravishing and killing comely Louise Hornbeck, 19, (above), at Grafton, Ohio, Monday night.

The officer said the youth who gave the name of John William Campbell, 19, of Mt. Sterling, Ill., had been arrested by Marshall police after he had attempted to molest a 15-year-old high school girl in a public park in downtown Marshall.

The arrest culminated a widespread search launched after the girl's battered body was found in a weed-covered vacant lot, where she was struck down on her way home from a dentist's office where she was employed.

Councilmen Will Weigh Land Deal

Aldermen to Consider Decision on Lieber Company Property Purchase

Purchase of Lieber Lumber company property to be used in the extension of N. Division street will be considered by the common council at a regular meeting at 7:30 tonight in city hall.

Aldermen voted to offer the company $6,500 for the land including 30 feet on Franklin street extending to a point on Washington street and lots two and three on the proposed new street. The offer was accepted by the company through its representatives, Carroll and Carroll.

The planning commission met yesterday and will recommend to the council that a property owned by Henry Hegner be placed in the commercial and light industrial district. A zoning change involving the southwest corner at the Mason street-Packard street intersection was denied by the commission.

up the French. Even since the war broke out in Spain 15 months ago the two powers have cooperated on virtually every major issue.

British circles were inclined to blame Italy for what they termed unwillingness to meet London halfway after the London-Paris concession to Premier Mussolini to have the non-intervention group handle the problem.

Mussolini, who has admitted and defended Italian intervention in Spain, had rejected the British-French proposal to deal with withdrawal in three-power talks.

Italy Accused

The ramifications of the crisis were tangled and far flung, but revolved chiefly about rivalries in the Mediterranean and adjoining regions.

The French government announced that appointment of former Premier Albert Sarraut to direct France's North African affairs resulted from loss of power by local authorities because of "too much interference and outside influence."

The official French statement, however, took no direct notice of a recent report to the annual congress of the radical socialist party which accused Italy of carrying on "agitation in the Moslem world from Hjaz to Morocco."

Rehab quarters in London told of reports that Moslem leaders in Palestine, Syria and Tunisia—the first under British mandate, the second under French mandate and the latter a French protectorate—were turning pro-Italian and that Italy was seeking their favor by stressing Mussolini's self-chosen role as a protector of Islam.

Authoritative fascists disclaimed any Italian responsibility for Moroccan unrest.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIFEMAN

What are the Stock Markets Saying?

At a time like this when nobody fully understands the behavior of the stock market or can judge the prospects of business, the natural thing to do is to look around for a scapegoat. Yet the fact is that if any one foresaw that within two months of the adjournment of Congress, the whole advance in security prices since 1935 would be wiped out, he kept that knowledge a well guarded secret. If we are candid and fair, we must admit, I think, that however much we may have regarded the New Deal as unsound, there was no one who knew, say on August 15, that the stock market was about to collapse or that a considerable depression might be about to begin.

On the contrary, almost every one I know supposed that unsound conditions here and abroad—such as the holding back of productive labor and the vast unproductive expenditures on armaments and public works combined with inflationary financing in every great nation—would lead not to a sudden collapse but to a dangerous rise in prices. For that reason no one is in a position to discuss the situation on the assumption that he foresaw the event and said so.

Dependable Knowledge of Cycle is Lacking

The fundamental fact of the matter is that there does not exist any dependable scientific knowledge of the business cycle. The whole subject is still obscure; the data have never been fully ascertained and the theory is still very much unsettled. In the study on "Prosperity and Depression" just made for the League of Nations by Professor Gottfried von Haberler of Harvard University, 158 pages are required in order to summarize the divergent theories held by reputable and competent economists. We are obviously moving in a region, therefore, where nobody knows clearly what he is talking about, in a region not yet brought securely within the frontiers of human knowledge.

But the matter is complicated further by the fact that the economic process, which no one understands very well, is today in every part of the world subject to the management of politicians, mystics, demagogues, prophets and soldiers, who do not understand it at all. In the nineteenth century, although no one knew much about the business cycle, recovery used to come after a while because nobody interfered with it. But nowadays nearly every government has taken charge of its own sector of the economic system, and what we are experiencing is neither a natural recovery nor an administered recovery, but a bad combination of the two.

No one knows what these providential governments are going to do next, because they themselves do not know. They live on a twenty-four-hour basis with one eye on the stock market, another on a few dubious statistics, with their hand on what they call the public pulse and their ears to the ground. Under these conditions private initiative is, of course, paralyzed since no man knows what the government will demand of him tomorrow, and government initiative is paralyzed because the government does not know from day to day what it is going to imagine the people want.

It may well be that the consensus of opinion reflected in the stock markets of the world is truer than the opinions of any individual trading in them or commenting upon them. What these markets seem to say is that the whole recovery of the past two years at any rate was insubstantial and impermanent.

On that it represented, not a true revival of the production of goods for exchange but a governmental boom, subsidized by paper money, and devoted to armaments, public works and doles.

They seem to say that here and abroad, for one reason and another, a general recovery beyond the levels of 1935 has been prevented. The stock markets seem, in other words, to be responding not to the machanical effects of monetary inflation but to reflecting the realistic judgment of business men on the prospects of private business.

Internal Conflict Creates a Deadlock

It would appear as if men as men still had within themselves all the energies that have in the past caused them to work, save, and to be enterprising, but that those energies are throttled, not merely in Washington, but almost everywhere in the world. In the totalitarian states everything is, of course, at the service of the military; there is virtually no capitalism left. In France and in the United States, to a much lesser degree in Britain, the capitalist system is paralyzed at its core by the fact that the party in power is hostile to that system. We are trying to operate a capitalist system under a government which dislikes the system and would, if it had the courage and the power, replace it by the collective system.

This inner conflict between the nature of free capitalism and the real purposes of the government has created a deadlock. Business cannot proceed because it is terrorized by the New Dealers; the New Dealers cannot proceed because, being only half-hearted collectivists, they do not dare to follow out the logic of their own ideas. What the New Dealers would like to have is very prosperous business which they could milk in order to provide the subsidies upon which their political power is founded. They would like, so to speak, to have capitalism finance its own gradual extinction.

Must Give Business Opportunity to Prosper

That they cannot have, if they want a prosperous capitalism, they will have to give business the security under which it can prosper; if they want collectivism, they must be prepared to face the grim fact that, once they have made the choice, capitalism will not go on imperturbably producing wealth for them, but will become paralyzed and will stagnate. They can move into collectivism only through a severe depression and a great social crisis. They cannot move into it accompanied by a joyous boom.

That is the real issue. In France the issue came to a head last summer, and the French New Dealers have ever since been saving their faces while they retreated. Here, the issue seems to be coming to a head now. But since we have irresponsible personal government in Washington, no one can know how Mr. Roosevelt will meet the issue.

Board Approves New Sidewalks

Traffic Regulation Also Discussed at Kimberly Meeting

Kimberly—The village board Monday evening held a special meeting to discuss additional sidewalks and the problem of traffic regulation between Sidney and Main streets on Kimberly Avenue.

The board voted to build a sidewalk on S. Main street from Kimberly avenue to First street on the west side of the street, and to complete an open space on W. Charles street from the corner of Charles and N. John street east to Ed Mirkes' lot line. Property owners on Washington street also have inquired as to the possibilities of a sidewalk this fall.

Complaints have been made to the village board of the congested condition on Kimberly avenue between Sidney and Main streets. On the north side of the street are tavern, meat market, and bakery, while on the south side there are two taverns, hardware store and a garage. During the hours from 9 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening, parked cars make it impossible for a driver pulling up to the intersection to see an approaching car, unless he continues on from the center of the street, it was reported.

The village board passed a resolution, placing this block under a two-hour parking limit. Parking signs were purchased from the Tebbel's Sign and Foundry company at Waukesha.

Verhagen and Sons were asked by the board to remove the terrace in front of their place of business in order to help eliminate parking congestion.

Farm Leaders in 3 Counties Ask Federal Aid for Potato Growers Due to Crop Failure

Stevens Point—(AP)—Agricultural leaders of Portage, Waupaca and Waushara counties took steps at a conference yesterday to obtain federal aid for potato growers facing a financial crisis because of this year's crop failure.

Congressman Gerald J. Boileau, Waupaca, attended the meeting and then telephoned to the federal surplus commodities corporation at Washington to ask what could be done about purchasing seed potatoes for next year.

Boileau said he would go to Washington shortly to discuss the question personally with the federal authorities.

Reports to the meeting indicated Portage county's total crop of saleable potatoes would be but 20 per cent of normal. Similar conditions prevail in Waupaca county and the northern section of Waushara, it was reported.

A combination of a potato disease known as "yellow dwarf," heat and drought was blamed for the crop failure. Experts warned against the use of seed infected with the disease.

John F. Jardine, Waupaca, said "this is the first time in 50 years that we have had a failure of the late potato crop."

Council Approves Agreement on Plan To Extend Street

Public Service Commission To Conduct Hearing on Proposal Nov. 3

New London—The tentative agreement of a special council committee with Chicago and North Western railway officials in the sharing of the cost of the proposed extension of E. Quincy street across the rail company's tracks was approved by the common council at the regular meeting at the city hall last night.

Under the agreement the railroad proposed to bear the most of all expense involving the tracks and switches while the city agreed to do the work pertaining to the grading of the bed and installation of necessary curbing.

Council President Lynn Springmire aired the report of the agreement before the council and pointed out that the estimated cost to the city was approximately $150.

Notice was received this week that a hearing on the proposed extension will be held before the public service commission at Madison Nov. 3. City Attorney Giles H. Putnam will attend. The extension is sought as a sentence to residents on that street, removal of difficulties experienced in the plowing of snow in winter, easy access to the city water pumping works and an open street in case of fire in the Edison block with E. Beacon avenue obstructed.

The board of public works was authorized to purchase not more than 500 yards of crushed stone for use on city streets, the outlay not to exceed $500. Alderman Frank Meating of the board explained that the city's supply has been exhausted and some stone will be needed for street repair in the spring.

Concerning traffic lights at the intersection of Highways 45 and 54, Putnam reported that the state highway commission had been considering lights at two points in Waupaca county. The Bear Creek corners where Highway 22 meets 45 and at the intersection at New London though the committee has been indifferent to the latter. Putnam said the commission promised a decision on the matter within a few days.

Report on Relief
The monthly report of the relief department for September was given to each alderman individually with the itemized list of the cases involved. Relief costs for September were the lowest since 1932.

Mayor Wendlandt reported that all city groups and agencies had been notified to submit budget estimates on or before Monday, Oct. 25. Aldermen plan special meetings to get the budget in shape for council action soon.

The council conducted little business last night and Robert M. Connelly, city engineer, arrived from Appleton with plans and specifications for the proposed Hatten park fieldhouse shortly after the council adjourned. A tentative meeting date to consider the plans was set for Friday night by Harold Pieper, chairman of the park board.

A tavern operators' license was granted to Walter J. Sohreide and an invitation was read to attend a meeting of the Association for the Relief of High Water at Oshkosh today. No city officials planned to attend.

Clergyman Talks At Lions Meeting

Rev. Paul E. Herb Compares Current, Old Morals Standards

New London—The Rev. Paul E. Herb of the Most Precious Blood Catholic church was guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the New London Lions club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon.

Dwelling on the standards of present day morals as compared to the standards of perfection established through the ages, the modern generation is found wanting in many ways, he said.

The New London club has been invited to attend the ladies night of the Appleton Lions on Nov. 1 and the banquet program at Kaukauna Nov. 23 when the first fraternal president from Wisconsin, Frank V. Birch of Milwaukee, will be an honored guest.

The group also voted to join the other five clubs of Waupaca county in supplying the 4-H pin awards to clubs in the county.

Kluth Sets Pace In Classic Loop With 610 Series

New London—"Tuddy" Kluth, lead-off man for the Tripod Chevroleto of Clintonville, paced the invading kenlers to a 3-game win over Bumps Bowlby's Candies of New London with a 610 series in a Waupaca County Classic League match at Prah's alleys last night. In the same position for the New London quintet, Sylvester Stern was high man for the locals with 602. The Chevys took the first game by only three pins, 912 to 909.

Kluth crashed games of 185, 222 and 202; Stern 206, 202 and 194. Ed Bedowski of Clintonville pounded a 601 total with 194, 214 and 193. Bill Zastrow hit a 586 total and 223 game for the invaders. At anchor for Bowlbys, Ezy Buelow cracked 588, blowing in the first line for a 160 game and finishing with 223. Art Gottschalk reached a 223 game for a 528 series.

The New London Knapstein Brews traveled to Clintonville to meet Petek's Bars there last night.

New London Plays Night Game Friday

Stacymen Will Meet Clintonville Eleven in Final Conference Game

New London—A change in the original schedule will take the New London High school football team to Clintonville Friday night in the last Northeastern Wisconsin conference game of the season. The game had originally been scheduled for Saturday afternoon but last week the date was switched to a night game, Coach D. N. Stacy reported.

The New London squad emerged from the Shawano tilt without a scratch and will work out under the lights at the city park tonight in preparation for Friday's game.

While the whole lineup is back in good shape it is probable Coach Stacy will give his next year's team a chance for experience against the Truakers. Throughout the season the Clintonville squad has gamely taken one defeat after another, in cases serving to break in the other coaches' green hands and at other times taking humiliating defeats from far more powerful teams.

The Stacymen apparently have improved to a much greater extent than the Truakers since the first of the season and fans are counting strongly on one more victory. Easy work outs, favoring the underdogs, men, are the order of the week. If the varsity squad can manage two or three markers over the Truakers in short order, there is little doubt that the next year's men will carry the game to the finish.

Packers Play Final Home Game Sunday

Battle Cleveland Rams
On City Stadium
Grid

CAHNTO REFEREE

Engelbreton Has Bad
Ankle, Hutson
Charley-Horse

GREEN BAY—Facing the Cleveland Rams for the second time in as many Sundays, the Green Bay Packers resumed work here, aiming to stage another brilliant offensive display on the occasion of their last appearance at City stadium.

Anxious to witness the national champions and current contenders in the final home game, fans already are making extensive demands for tickets, E. A. Spachmann, director of sales, reported today.

The team returned on the Milwaukee Road train late yesterday afternoon, all the players in good shape except Tony Engelbreton, who twisted his ankle in the game at Cleveland and has a bad limp. Engelbreton probably will be in shape to play Sunday if he is needed, but he may be given a week's rest. Don Hutson is bothered with a charley-horse.

The Packers have a great chance to improve their position further in the National Professional league race Sunday, as while they are attempting to make it two straight over the Rams, the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions will be locked in a death-grip at Wrigley field. The Packers would prefer to have the Lions win, but a decision for either team would move Green Bay nearer the top.

Tied for Second
If the Bears are victors, and the Packers beat Cleveland, Green Bay will be tied for second place in the Western division with Detroit. If the Lions win, Detroit will go into first place and the Packers will remain in third, but only half a game behind the Bears.

Bobby Cain, Chicago, will referee Sunday's game according to the assignment of officials made by Joe F. Carr, Columbus, O., league president. M. J. Meyer, Toledo, will be umpire; J. J. Ritter, Detroit, headlinesman, and R. J. Erditz, Oshkosh, field judge.

Playing before their final home crowd of the season and facing the absolute necessity of a victory to remain in the National league championship race, the Packers will dump the works onto their opponents and keep their ears on the public address system for word from Chicago.

One of Best
In point of all-around efficiency he was one of the best backs the Packers have had in a long time, and teamed with Purdue's Johnny Drake, he is a threat all the time. The Cleveland line is somewhat lighter than the average pro wall, but is fast and stubborn. Even after the Packers began running up the score, the Rams fought back bitterly, scoring twice themselves and then trying to hope of another touchdown.

Dick Zoll, former Indiana guard who played great ball for Cleveland, will make his first professional appearance at City stadium in a Rams uniform, and two former Packers, Ralph (Primo) Miller, tackle, and Harry (The Horse) Matos, halfback, are booked for plenty of action.

The Cleveland management has not announced whether or not "Swiftie," the team's ram mascot, will make the trip to Green Bay.

As a special feature the Luxembourg city band of 60 pieces will play between halves. Luxembourg is one of the hottest Packer communities outside Green Bay itself, and the band will be accompanied by a loyal group of Luxembourg rooters.

Ripon Points for Win Over Cornell Eleven
Ripon—Encouraged by the discovery of Butch Strickler, New Glarus, as the sparkling Ripon college Redmen need, and hopeful that veterans Capt. Lloyd Miller and Halfback Harry Mathos will recover from injuries this week.

Coach Carl H. Doehling is preparing for the season's toughest test against Cornell Saturday.

Cornell has won five straight. Four were Midwest conference victories over Monmouth, Lawrence, Beloit and Coe.

Strickler sparked in Ripon's 12 to 0 victory at Beloit Friday. The Redmen played with three veterans on the sidelines and were so short of reserves that 10 men played for 60 minutes.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

WEVE often heard the comment that Lawrence doesn't draw at home because it doesn't win. But the other afternoon we heard another comment that might bear consideration. It was made by a fairly representative citizen of Appleton who inquired about the price of Lawrence games. When told his comment was, "That's too much; if they charged 40 cents I'd probably come out to a game regardless of whether they won or lost."

Maybe there's something in that remark. John Hopkins University has done away with an admission fee entirely and recently drew 4,000 persons which was the largest crowd to see a game in many years, and it lost 30 to 0. Naturally there must be some admission charge to Lawrence games because the students pay a fee to ward upkeep of the sports program. But perhaps a cut in prices would bring out enough extra fans to make up the difference in the "gate" and the crowd would be larger.

We'll have to admit that John Walter of the Press-Gazette is a big-time sports editor now. He flew from Cleveland to Chicago Sunday evening so as to get back to Green Bay with the Packer-Ram story and to get out his sheet. A guy must be important when he can get an airplane ride.

Eddie Kral of Stevens Point Teachers and Bob Folt of Oshkosh Teachers worked a football game at Antler the other evening. Bet it was the first time they ever agreed on anything.

Ken Laird, grid coach at Milwaukee Country Day was in town Saturday. In answer to a friendly jibe about his team scoring 71 points the previous Friday afternoon Ken said he just couldn't stop the boys.

The mail brought a letter from Phil Zwick whose stationery notes him as the "Wisconsin Flash." He's still in London and according to the dispatches he sends along, still in the front row in the boxing game. A rather lengthy article in "The People" tells that Phil has a heavy-weight named Robey Leibrann and a flyweight named Jimmy Webster in tow. Besides that Phil also wants to fight.

The article goes on to say that the heavy-weight is a real tough boy. He doesn't sleep on a mattress but on a good, hard board. And then there's a couple paragraphs about the time Phil stopped a guy three times in a round in Cleveland, Wisconsin, which probably indicates the sports scribe doesn't know his U. S. geography.

Phil goes on to say he's looking for a team but that the Englishmen of his weight are steering clear. And then he calls them "cake-eaters, not Scores hung up by Elks keggers were Horn, 223 and 201, Brock, 218, Gresson, 206, and Lesseloyne, 209. E. Hinkens cracked out a 231 and C. Currie a 213 as Van Zealand's Chryslers of Little Chute took two from Hoppies Wieners. Fries hit a 235, Felt 225, and Strutz 201 to head the Chryslers' scoring.

Muench, with a 239 and 214 paced the Setters Beverages as they won two games from the 20th Century club on Arcade alleys. Other outstanding scores for the Setters were Wege, 236, 211, Brecklin, 202, 225, Hense, 213.

Reinke put together games of 235, 215, and 222 to lead the Century keggers. Scores by his teammates: 214, A. Gehring 202, 227, 214, A. Gehring 202, 227.

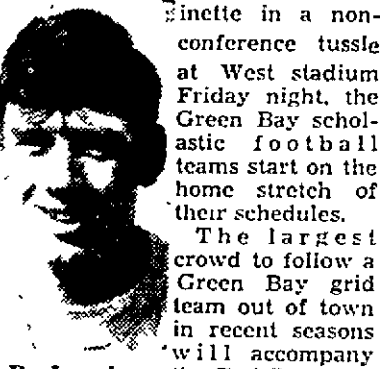

VIKING TACKLES PAUSE DURING WORKOUT

Two Lawrence college tackles who are getting back into shape after a session with injuries are shown above as they paused in a recent workout. They are Jack Bodilly, left, who is a sophomore and hails from Green Bay West, and Bob Arthur, a veteran. Arthur recently suffered a knee injury but returned to the squad last week. Both will be in perfect condition for the Carroll game at Waukesha next Saturday. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Call Out the Marines! East Bays Plan Special Train to Appleton Saturday

GREEN BAY—With East high preparing for the most important game of its Fox River Valley conference season at Appleton Saturday afternoon, and West entertaining Marquette in a non-conference tussle at West stadium Friday night, the Green Bay scholastic football teams start on the home stretch of their schedules.

The largest crowd to follow a Green Bay grid team out of town in recent seasons will accompany the Red Devils to Appleton, as East and the Terrors—two unbeaten teams—fight it out for undisputed first place. The winners will be practically certain of no more than a tie for the Valley conference championship.

A howling crowd of East high students will leave on the North Western train at 10:15 Saturday morning. More than 100 already have signed up, and they are receiving a rate which includes train fare, two meals, and a ticket to the game.

The students are taking to the excursion idea with enthusiasm, and are getting support from their parents, who like the business of keeping the young people off the highway. The train arrives at Appleton at 11:02 Saturday morning, and leaves on the return trip at 7:45, arriving here at 8:30.

East will bank upon a smarter, faster team, plus better reserves, to overcome Appleton's vaunted man power Saturday. The Terrors, headed by Chuck Sample, conference scoring leader, have displayed a tenuous attack at intervals, their latest outburst being a 42 to 0 walling of Fond du Lac.

The Red Devil pass campaign, with Don Josephs and Benny Allard doing the pitching, will come in for plenty of use, as the Terrors have appeared none too effective on pass defense this season. But they have punch plus, and probably will give East its hardest battle to date.

Don Lambeau, injured halfback, will be back and ready to go by Saturday. As he has an extra day to work on this week, with no Friday game scheduled, Hearden excused his regulars Monday night after a light drill, and sent the boys who didn't see much action last week against the reserves in a scrimmage.

The standard was Dan McCartin, converted end, who was placed at fullback and displayed hard-hitting tendencies.

Horn led his Foster Tavern teammates with a 596 series, but they dropped two games to Balliet Insurance. J. Balliet put together games of 200, 210, and 212, winding up with a 622 series, and J. Behnke hit a 200 for the insurance men.

Cracking game of 245, 257, and 200 to reach his top series, Felt led his Bohl and Maeser team to a 3-1 game victory over Fenns Clothiers. R. Ecker wrote down a 206 and Leo-pold a 202 for the Bohl and Maeser keggers who hung up the evening's best team scores, 936 for game and 2,867 for match. A Gehring's 649, at the game of 225 and 228, stood out in the Clothiers' column.

Led by J. Doerfler's 238, Herman's 224 game and R. Johnson's 213 score, Killorens took two from Berliner Beers. R. Rippe spilled the pins for a 202 game and a 545 series to lead the Beers.

R. Loper rolled games of 203 and 213 and wound up with a 566 series and J. Tornow got a 217 as their team, Hotel Appleton, banged out a 2-game win over Electric City Brews. Schade's 339 series was the best on the Brewers' score sheet.

Northfield, Minn.—(U)—Marsh Deobold, director of Carleton college athletics, has issued a new kind of rain check.

Because the homecoming football game last Saturday with North Dakota State was all but rained out, he has invited every one—those who braved the storm and those who stayed home—to see the classic Carleton-Grinnell match Nov. 6 as guests of the college.

Navy Picked to Sink Notre Dame

Lampe Worried About Carroll's Failure to Score

Pioneers Preparing for Homecoming Game With Lawrence

WAUKESHA—With their consecutive win streak stopped at 13 by a scoreless tie administered at Lake Forest Saturday, Carroll has started preparations for the homecoming tilt this week against Lawrence. Coach E. A. Lampe said that most of the emphasis would be on an effective passing game, as the Pioneers completed only five out of 20 against the Illinois school.

The injury-ridden squad came through last week's encounter without incurring any additional wounds, but Lampe said that three regulars probably would be out this week. George (Buck) Dana, tackle, and Jake Gores, all-state center last year, are nursing injury arms, while Warren Callahan, hard-running halfback, has a similar ailment.

Offense Is Lacking
Carroll's offense was decidedly impotent against the Foresters. Four times they were inside the 20-yard stripe, but lacked the spark to push the ball over. Last week's game was the first in the last 14 in which the Pioneers were unable to capitalize on scoring chances.

Jerry Muenzer showed well in place of Callahan, but lacks the passing ability of the injured veteran. Ken Binder looked good at the blocking back post and Ossie Perren's work stood out in the line.

No Lineup Changes
Lampe said today that he planned no further changes in the lineup which will start against Lawrence. He put his varsity gridgers through an intensive drill on play fundamentals last night, but said that he probably would discontinue scrimmage in an effort to forestall any further injury to his small squad.

Art Schultz, who was used at center in place of Gores, looked fairly good on defense Saturday, but inexperience handicapped his offensive performance. Bad passes placed the Pioneers in losses on several occasions, but Lampe feels that the boys will improve enough during the week to warrant his appearance in the starting lineup Saturday.

Former Judge Says Gamblers Get Best Tickets at Minnesota
By Associated Press
Minneapolis—Hiram S. Mendow, former Anoka county municipal court judge, charged yesterday that down town gamblers and professional ticket scalpers are able to obtain large quantities of season athletic ticket books at the University of Minnesota.

Mendow, in a letter to L. L. Schroeder, university ticket manager, asserted the scalpers receive books for seats in Memorial stadium between the 40 and 50 yard line for football games.

Mendow said he believed the season books are obtained "from alumni and stadium contributors and from faculty members, who turn their priority slips over to these persons so that the scalpers can get the books direct."

Schroeder said he expected to arrange a conference with Mendow some time this week.

Ninth Grade Leads Intramural Race At McKinley School
The 9Y grade at McKinley Junior High school is leading the intramural race with two wins and one tie game for a total of 26 points. The seventh grade is in second place with two wins and a loss for 22 points, the eighth grade is third with one win and two losses for 14 points and the 9X group is trailing with a tie and two losses for 10 points.

In touchfootball games played last week, the 9Y grade won three straight games from the 9X group by scores of 7 to 0, 19 and 18 and 14 and 12. Two games are left to complete the schedule.

Soccer results last week between the seventh and eighth grades show the youngsters on the winning end in two games and one tie. Eighth graders winning one. There are two games left to play.

Team captains in the ninth grade are Raymond Kraft and Gordon Swamp, in the seventh grade, George Schafer and in the eighth grade, James DeShaney.

Irish Lack Scoring Punch in Previous Tilts This Season
BY WILLIAM WEEKES
CHICAGO—(U)—Elmer Layden is still trying to prove he was wrong about Notre Dame's football team—and now he hopes he can do it by Saturday.

The "Thin Man" admitted back in early September that Irish prospects for a hell-roaring year on the gridiron looked very nice—on the surface. There were lettermen for every position and experienced boys who failed to win monograms a year ago, but Layden insisted that trouble lurked all too close to the surface. He was so right that the Irish will be the second choice when they square off against Navy's stalwarts Saturday at South Bend.

Layden pointed out—to the accompaniment of disbelieving chuckles—that Notre Dame needed a triple-threat attack. Failing the appearance of one of those, he said the Irish might squeeze through a murderous schedule with the aid of a top flight passing and running back, which would be the left halfback in Notre Dame's scheme.

Lack Scoring Punch
It looked as though he had a passer and runner in Jack McCarthy when the Irish trounced Drake. However, it didn't look so much that way after a scoreless tie with Illinois and last week's beating from Carnegie Tech. The Irish "won the statistics" in both games, but the punch wasn't there.

In his search for a top-notch passer, Layden tried Ben Sheridan, a fleet sophomore from Havana, Ill., at left half. Sheridan pitched several successful passes and scored two of the varsity's four touchdowns against the freshmen. Burney McCormick, the consistent bright spot in the Irish backfield, accounted for the other pair.

Both Northwestern and Ohio State, which collide at Columbus in the Big Ten's five-star special this week, were handicapped by rain yesterday. The Wildcats were forced to settle for a brief dummy scrimmage under the stands. The Buckeyes divided their attention between offense and a study of Northwestern players.

Heavy Workout
Not daring to waste a minute of the time left before they leave to battle Pittsburgh Saturday, Wisconsin's Badgers hustled through a heavy workout. Rain drove Michigan into the field house, while its foe this week, Iowa, was given a long session which included plenty of attention to ball-handling.

Indiana, which meets Cincinnati this week, also idle this week, was let off easy again, but Illinois which goes back to the wars a week from Saturday against Michigan, got down to business on a revised offense. Jay Wardley, out since before the opening game, was at left halfback, indicating Captain Lowell Spurzon may be shifted back to right half.

There are always the diehards. With air conditioning sweeping the country, Mike Jacobs has doubled his publicity staff to heat up his fight shows.

Freshmen Demonstrate Pitt Formations: Short Practice Outdoors

Madison—(U)—Rain drove the University of Wisconsin football squad into the field house for most of yesterday's practice in preparation for the game with Pittsburgh.

After getting a view of Pitt formations as demonstrated by freshmen, the varsity squad went out of doors and ran through a signal drill for about half an hour. Coach Harry Stuhldreher hoped to keep his players in the open for a light two-hour workout today.

The team will leave for Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon.

With Al Dorisch, tackle, and John Doyle, guard, still absent with injuries, Benz and Lochrke, ends; Eckl and Brodhagen, tackles; Johnson and Cole, guards; Pohl, center; Gavre, quarterback; Weiss, fullback; Schmitz and Matasevich, halfbacks.

Pennsylvania Youth Fanned 155 in Season
Titusville, Pa.—(U)—In the hot stove leagues around this northwestern Pennsylvania town, baseball fans are talking about 17-year-old Raymond "Lefty" Armstrong as the next Bob Feller.

Lefty is the farmboy who took off enough time from pitching hay to hurl 86 innings of shutout ball for the Titusville American Legion juniors last summer.

Not only that, he fanned 155 batters in a game against Union City last Aug. 22; struck out 153 batters during the season; fanned nine in succession against Cambridge Springs; and pitched two one-hit games.

Poverty Is Good Start Toward Success in Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

A group of youngsters ask me to tell them what qualities are necessary to achieve success in life. This is a question that is impossible to answer definitely because success means so many different things to so many different people. What is one man's success is another man's failure.

DOROTHY DIX

This brand of success there are certain definite qualities whose cultivation will expedite one in getting there.

It helps, of course, for one to be born with a sound mind in a sound and good-looking body, and also for nature to have endowed one with that elusive something that we call "personality," which makes every body give its lucky possessor a hand-up. But it is not absolutely necessary for one to possess any, or all, of these qualities in order to succeed.

Some of the dumbest women make the most brilliant matches. One of the homeliest men who ever lived was not only president of the United States, but has passed into a legendary hero. Plenty of invalids have fought through every physical affliction to power and place, and many of our most successful business men have the manners of sore-headed bears.

When it comes to putting the finger on the things that make for success in life I think the most valuable of all is poverty. Not the grinding poverty that means the lack of necessary food and warmth and clothes and that crushes a child with its hopelessness, but the sort of poverty that teaches a youngster industry and thrift and makes it know in the cradle that it is on its own and what it wants it has to go out and get for itself.

The statesmen, the financiers, the lawyers, the judges, the famous writers and actors were almost to a man poor boys who came up from corn rows and cotton fields and slag piles and whatnot to where they are. Hardly a rich man's son among them, yet the rich boys were no less intelligent or had less talent than the poor boys, but they lacked the necessity that is the driving power that sends a lad on to success.

One of the most important factors in success is finding yourself. Discovering what nature intended you to do. Developing whatever abilities you may have to their fullest power, instead of wasting your time and your labor trying to do something for which you have no aptitude. Most of the failures in the world are men and women who have got into the wrong jobs. They are round pegs in square holes and never fit. Pick out the work you like to do and you will find happiness and profit in it, otherwise you will be one of the men or women who are always changing occupations and never making good in anything.

Have the determination to succeed. There is no easy sledding in life. Everything you undertake will be full of grueling work and filled with disappointments, but if you have the courage to fight on when there is nothing left in you except "the will that bids you still fight on," as Kipling says, you are practically sure of victory at the Success to one may mean climbing to the top of the ladder. To another it may mean sitting at the foot of it and helping others to rise. One may think himself a financial success if he has ten thousand dollars. Another is poor with a million. Literary fame means getting the Nobel Prize to one man. To another it is having his Vox Populi letters printed in the local paper. And so it goes. There is no yardstick by which to measure success.

To most of us, however, success means winning a certain amount of prosperity and a more or less conspicuous place in our community: two cars in the garage and raising our heads a little above the crowd. And for this brand of success there are certain definite qualities whose cultivation will expedite one in getting there.

It helps, of course, for one to be born with a sound mind in a sound and good-looking body, and also for nature to have endowed one with that elusive something that we call "personality," which makes every body give its lucky possessor a hand-up. Working Under the Sea

When divers work under the sea, they must watch out for dangers of more than one kind. For example, sharks may be looking around for a meal. Sometimes a diver sees a shark coming near, and defends himself in a strange way. By opening a valve in the helmet of his suit, he lets out a great rush of air, and this is likely to make the fish go somewhere else.

A diver named Lambert scared a shark away two or three times, but each time it returned. The man decided to try something else. As the shark came near the next time, he waited until he could strike it with a long knife which he held in his right hand. It was a skillful blow. The shark was killed and was hauled up to Lambert's ship.

The octopus is another danger to a deep sea diver. It may catch him in its long arms, and cling to him fiercely. In that case, the thing for the diver to do is to telephone or signal to have himself pulled to the surface. In some cases, the diver and the octopus have been brought to the ship's deck together, and the arms or tentacles have been hacked away from the animal.

Number One Rank May Be Detrimental to Child

BY ANGELO PATRISI

"Jacob is doing fine work in school. Number one in his class. The youngest child ever to hold such a record. He is very smart, is Jacob." Good enough. It is quite all right to be number one. Somebody has to be if the class is to be counted and measured, and it has to be in the usual school. But there are some facts to be considered about this headship, the first one being the effect that it is having on the child.

Being number one in any group is a relative matter. If there are only three in the class it might be easier to be number one than when there are fifty, or a hundred and eleven. And being number one at the age of seven in the elementary grades is not quite the same as being number one in high school, and far different from being head of the class in senior year in college. And being head of the group at the age of fifty is quite another matter and much more significant.

What I want to emphasize is this: It is a mistake to allow a child in the grades to take being number one too seriously, so seriously that he believes that the head of the group is his rightful place, and the place of duty for him. Don't burden a child with the idea that if he falls below ninety-five that he has disgraced himself and his family. It may not be true.

The child in an elementary class has not so much competition as the child in a high school class. Along the way the weaker students have dropped out, turned off the scholastic track toward other goals. The further along the road the student goes the greater the competition until at last in the university, or in the business world he must be a champion against champions. Being number one, being champion in one's field, becomes, as time passes, the flag bearer's place, and few can hope to attain it.

It is right to train a child to do his best, to make every effort to stand high in his classes. It is right and wise to teach him to try for first place. There is no healthy growth without effort, and effort sustained and directed develops dreamed of powers. But that effort alone is not enough. Held too long as a goal, it becomes a barrier to growth and success. Along with it must go the idea that the standard of measurement is one's own best. Don't accent a child's class standing beyond all else. Don't measure your praise by his numerical standing. "Did you do your utmost? Did you stretch yourself in your effort? Did you grow?" are the questions the child should be trained to ask himself. Even being number one might not mean personal growth

Arms, Elbows Treated With Lemon Juice

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Even if the calendar didn't tell us that the social season approaches, the many letters asking about arm treatments would serve as the necessary reminder. What to do about them, would-be-lovely ladies want to know.

If you're planning to don evening dress give your arms and particularly your elbows a good going over. Need I remind you to think of face, neck, back, shoulder, arms and hands as one and give yourself a deep-down all-over facial. That's the best way to get the skin soft and smooth.

The elbows may be particularly dark and horny. Which means that they will need some extra-special attention.

Scrub and Rub 'Em

First, scrub them with bath brush and a good soap every night while you take your warm cleansing bath. Rinse thoroughly. That done, prepare to bleach. Many women find the lowly lemon a boon for elbow bleaching. Remove as many seeds as you can and dig the half lemon over each elbow. If you don't find it too uncomfortable you can tie the half-lemon or a heavy slice of lemon over the elbow and leave it there for a while. Rinse, and apply a lubricating cream to soften the skin. Leave this on as long as possible, preferably overnight, and again you can bind the creamed elbow in flannel strips to keep the cream on the skin and off the bed linen.

There are any number of bleaches you can substitute for the lemon. For instance, half lemon juice and half peroxide patted on and allowed to dry on the skin. Then there are bleaching packs. The same packs that you use for face and neck are fine. And there are bleaching creams to be had; some of them embodying bleaching and refining properties so that they bleach, soften and smooth the skin all in one.

If you are using a liquid powder base for face and neck, blend it over arms and elbows, too.

Too Thin or Otherwise

If your arms are so thin that you are sensitive about them when in evening clothes, keep massaging them with a good lubricating cream and practice deep breathing and arm flinging exercises. If they are too, too stout, the same flinging exercises, but clench the fists and tense the upper arm muscles.

Sports, such as golf, are grand. My complete new booklet "Reduce by Diet" (Booklet 201) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

Culbertson Submits Two More Self-Test Queries

Mr. Culbertson is conducting, through this column, a national examination of bridge players. Rate yourself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer.

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Questions 16 and 17 of the National Self-Rating Bridge Examination appeared yesterday. They were:

Question 16: Opponents are vulnerable. You are not. Your partner dealt and bid one club. Next hand passed. Your holding is:

5 ♠ K Q J 7 5 3 2 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 5 3

What call do you make? Answer: You should make the pre-emptive (shut-out) response of four hearts. Your hand is virtually worthless except at a heart contract. If the opponents are allowed to get in, they will not do it. A single trick to the defense. (Two points merit for any other response.)

Question 17: Both sides are vulnerable and you have a part-score of 40 points. Your partner deals

Baste every fifteen minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Baked Sweet Potatoes
1 sweet potatoes 1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon 1 teaspoon butter
Wash potatoes. Cut off ends. Bake 35 minutes or until soft when pressed. Carefully press each potato open and add portions of the rest of the ingredients. Return to the oven for five minutes. Serve.

Corn Bread
2-3 cup cornmeal 1 egg yolk
1-1/2 cups flour 1/2 cup milk
4 teaspoons baking powder 3 tablespoons ing powder
2-3 teaspoon salt 1 egg white
4 tablespoons granulated sugar
Lightly mix ingredients and pour into greased, shallow pan. Bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve warm with butter.

Olives Dressing
4 tablespoons 3 pimiento-stuffed olives
4 tablespoons minced
French dressing 1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 ripe olives, minced
Mix and chill the ingredients and serve on lettuce or other vegetable salad.

and bids one heart. Next hand passes. Your holding is:

♠ K J 10 ♥ J 8 6 ♦ A J 8 ♣ Q J 8 4

What call do you make? Answer: You should bid one no trump, a beautiful "trap bid." Your 40 part-score creates a grand opportunity to trap your opponents into a disastrous defensive contract. If next opponent passes, your partner certainly will not let the bidding die when only 60 points are needed. (If you answered one no trump, add two points to your score as reward; if you bid two no trump, take two points merit. No merit for a two heart or two club bid.)

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question 18: You are West, declarer at a three no trump contract. North's opening lead was the four of hearts. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

♣ 4 3 2

EAST (dummy)
♠ A 5 3

♦ K Q 8 4 2
♣ A 4 3

South won the opening lead with the heart ace and returned the heart eight. How do you play the hand from that point?

North, dealer.

The bidding:
North 1 spade East 2 hearts South Pass West Pass
North 3 diamonds East Pass South Pass West Pass

West opened the five of hearts. East's king covered the queen, and declarer won. Two rounds of diamonds fortunately dropped the outstanding ones. Declarer then returned to his own hand with the diamond nine, led the nine of spades and, when West played low, let it ride. Naturally declarer could not count on a successful spade finesse, therefore did not dare cash his heart jack while still in his hand. He properly reasoned that the opponents eventually would have to give him that trick anyway. The spade nine holding, the diamond seven was overtaken with the eight, and two more diamonds cashed, declarer discarding two hearts. Meanwhile East discarded the ten of hearts, a club, and a spade, thus permitting West to count that declarer had no more spades. Unfortunately, West clung tightly to all his spades and as many clubs as possible, on the theory that he was guarding those suits. Thus, he let go the one card he should have held, namely, the four of hearts. After running the diamond suit declarer cashed the spade ace, then led a club. East ducking the jack lost to the king. West cashed his king of spades, but then, rather than present dummy with the spade queen, was forced to return a club and East's ace was knocked out before his hearts were established. Thus, declarer made a total of ten tricks for top on the board.

Had West held his heart, he could have established a heart trick for East and, thus, saved the precious extra trick.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

LETTERS ABOUT WEDDINGS
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it possible to give the wedding reception at some other time than immediately following the ceremony? My daughter's plans for going away do not permit giving a party afterwards. However, if you say the reception can be given after they come back from a two-weeks wedding trip, may an engraved card to this effect be included with the church invitation?

Answer: It would be quite proper to enclose a reception card with a future date on it. It is to be hoped, however, that those receiving these invitations will notice the date and not go to your house immediately after the ceremony. At the delayed reception, the bride can not of course wear her wedding dress, any orange blossoms. She might, however, wear her wedding veil, and perhaps choose one purposely that would be suitable for both the wedding and reception.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am having a big church wedding and we are expecting many relatives from out of town. Even though the invitations have not as yet gone out, I know these people will come because they have always said they would come to my wedding. What worries us is the question of a breakfast for so many people and the world like us to confine this to the immediate families. Will you give us your opinion?

Answer: Choose an hour for the ceremony that is midway between meals—four o'clock for example—so that people will have had their lunch before coming and their dinner after they get home. At a between meal hour it is not necessary to serve more than tea or fruit punch and wedding cake—perhaps home-made. After all, people who care for you want to see you and wish you happiness, and the food you serve is of secondary importance.

Dear Mrs. Post: I've always wanted to have a "different" wedding, since all the brides I have ever been to are so out and dried. A friend has suggested that it would be "different" to set the hour at daybreak when the church would be especially beautiful. What do you think of this plan and do you think every one should be asked to the breakfast?

Answer: I cannot believe that many members of your families—or even your friends—unless of stay-out-all-night habit—will be enthusiastic about getting up in the pitch dark for your wedding. Apart from this, I don't like any unconventional plan for this serious occasion. I do not like weddings in airplanes, or in the sea, or at midnight, or any other strange place or hour. In other words, I don't quite see how any bride, approaching her marriage in an earnest and reverent spirit could feel any detail of the wedding ceremonial "cut and dried."

Hughes Objects to Route 41 Change

Only One Present at Hearing on State Roads in Neenah Vicinity

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh — Rainy weather apparently prevented delegations of Neenah property owners from attending the public hearing Tuesday afternoon before the state highway commission at the Oshkosh courthouse on proposed changes of the state trunk highway system in the vicinity of Neenah, for Earl Hughes, town of Neenah, county board member, was the only one who appeared. The hearing opened at 2 o'clock and was over at 2:15.

Supervisor Hughes objected to a proposed change to abandon old Highway 41 from the west city limits of Neenah to Winneconne avenue southwest 4 of a mile to its intersection with the new belt line. T. J. Pattison and William O'Brien, members of the state highway commission, explained changes proposed in Neenah are principally those in highway designation, made possible by the opening of new Highway 41 and abandonment of the old section of the highway. They said roads proposed to be removed from the state system include Highway 125 from the intersection of Highways 41 and 125, south about a mile and a half to the city limits. Also Highway 125 from the west city limits southwest to its intersection with Winneconne avenue and Highway 150 east to the intersection with Highway 125.

Ray Meyers and Milt Olsen have been signed for the semi-windup, also two out of three falls within an hour's time. Olsen appeared here several times last year. George Bennett and Larry Schaefer in the 30 minute curtain raiser.

Order Study of City Budget for Last Five Years

Radtko Urges Parents to Set Examples in Safety

Menasha — Traffic safety school for adults should dovetail with safety instruction to children because if parents are going to violate the very regulations they wish police to impress upon children for safety, very little benefit can be gained, this was the contention of Police Sergeant Carl Radtko, Appleton, as he spoke to Nicolet Parent Teachers association members and visitors Tuesday evening in Nicolet school.

"When parent double park, jay walk, walk against the lights and give Johnny the grocery order to bring back on his bicycle, in contradiction to every rule of safety that we try to teach and enforce for safety, how much good is a safety campaign?" Radtko asked.

Speaking specifically of traffic problems in Appleton and the safety campaign carried on by police in that city, Mr. Radtko told of plans for an adult school to be inaugurated this winter and of an ordinance planned which would do away with shrubbery at intersections and along driveways that obstructed view and often was a contributing factor in accidents.

Mr. Radtko told PTA members how he happened to start work on safety, quoted statistics on accidents and explained the educational program carried out in Appleton schools to promote safety.

He discussed traffic hazards due to increasing numbers of bicycles and illustrated his discussion with experiences in his work. He especially cautioned parents against permitting their daughters to thumb rides, their sons to do stunt riding and hook rides.

"Parents must accept some of the responsibility in safety campaigns," he emphasized. "They must be willing to abide by regulations themselves, back up safety campaigns through action and cooperate in every way with law enforcement groups."

Posters on safety, made by children in Nicolet school, were displayed in the auditorium at the meeting last night. Mrs. Ira Catlin, president of the Nicolet association, announced that the group's charter had been received and upon her suggestion that the 45 charter members of the group sign the

Alter Fiscal Year Of Schools To Get Equipment Funds

Council Will Meet Friday To Act on Transfer Of Money

Menasha—Solution of the problem of supplying money for the purchase of equipment for the new Menasha high school was offered last night by Mayor W. E. Held at the meeting of the common council at the city hall. Held suggested that the council change the fiscal year of the board of education from March 15 to January 1, to correspond with the fiscal year of all other city departments.

Upon motion of Alderman George Stilt, the council passed a resolution changing the fiscal year of the board of education from March 15 to Jan. 1 and ending the present fiscal year on Dec. 31, 1937. Consideration of the proper manner to transfer the amount left from the present budget to the building fund was given considerable time. City Attorney Edward McKenzie was instructed to draw up a resolution. The council adjourned to 4:30 Friday afternoon at which time the subject will come up again.

The mayor made a thorough study of the school's finances during the past two weeks. Available on the school budget now to carry through to the end of the fiscal year is $80,571.75. Expenses of running the schools for the next three months will amount to about $30,000, leaving $50,571.75 unexpended. If the fiscal year is changed to January 1, expenses for the year of 1938 would be cared for in the budget which will soon be set up. The $50,000 would be turned over to the building fund of the board of education by the city council.

The mayor's suggestion was that only the most necessary parts of the building be completed and the school be placed in operation as soon as possible. His recommendation was to permit the swimming pool, auditorium, landscaping and fence go for the time being. He pointed out that the architect receives 6 per cent of the purchase price on all equipment bought with his advice. This could be saved by waiting to finish some of the equipment until after the building itself was actually finished.

$24,000 From WPA

In addition to the $50,571.75 left available from last year's budget if the change is made, there will be $24,000 available for equipment from the WPA. Items of expense to be met by the board include contracts for lockers, shades, student and teachers desks and furniture, laboratory equipment and stokers to the amount of $42,241.60; other bills contracted for but not paid, $9,188.88; Unit "B," working equipment in the vocational school, $10,500; electric clocks and fixtures, $2,000; estimated cost of division door in the gymnasium, $5,000. These expenditures would still leave $6,641.27 of the $74,571.75 available.

The mayor pointed out that under the present set-up the council appropriates money to the schools at the beginning of the year but it lies idle until March 15 when the school fiscal year ends. A state insurance deposit of 1 per cent is exacted from those idle funds.

The board of education presented a report to the council showing that approximately $119,000 would be necessary to completely equip the new school at this time. That would include $12,830 for the pool, another $9,500 for the auditorium, $10,000 for walks and landscaping, and $7,000 for fence as well as other items. All salvaged desks, chairs, and tables from the old school are being used to equip the new building.

Because $11,750 for equipment for the vocational school, including some of the printing machinery, and the auditorium, are not included in the work to be done immediately, Mayor Held suggested that the board be allowed to place an additional $25,000 on its budget for next year. This amount could be raised with practically no increase in the tax rate as the assessed valuation of the city will jump about $500,000 next year. This will occur because improvements in real estate have been exempt from taxation during the last three years. High school aid has also been increased by about $4,000 from the state.

Mayor Held pointed out that the council was familiar with the state of the city's treasury and that the prospect of a heavy relief load without any national assistance required careful consideration of all expenditures.

The board of education was advised to take the surplus dirt from the Seventh street sewer project for use on the new school grounds.

Summer Projects Near Completion at Neenah

Neenah—A. G. Prunuske, city engineer, reported today that projects started this summer are nearly completed. About one and one-half blocks of sewers have yet to be installed on Main street from Van to Union street, and the sidewalk repair crews will be finished about the end of the month. Winter sewer work and the addition to the city toilet house are the only projects proposed for winter work.

Victim of Paralysis Reported Improved

Menasha—The condition of the Menasha young man ill with infantile paralysis was reported as good by H. O. Haugh, city health officer, today. The young man's attending physician reported that there was a slight trace of paralysis early in the case but the victim apparently had recovered from it.

Rumors as to the prevalence of the disease continue to spread, according to Mr. Haugh, who emphasized that all precautions to prevent any spread of the disease have been taken and that there is no epidemic. The city health department will be glad to answer all queries as to the number of cases and methods of detection or cure. The only other contagion present in the city is four cases of scarlet fever.

Delay Distribution of 25,000 Norway Spruce

Waupaca—The 25,000 Norway spruce trees that were to have been distributed within the county this fall will not be distributed until early next spring, according to word received from County Agent George F. Massey. Mr. Massey has been advised by state authorities that because of weather conditions and other reasons it will not be advisable to plant the trees now.

These trees were given to Waupaca county by Frank Jennings, New London nurseryman. A small charge for the trees was made to cover labor costs and rental for the lot on which the trees have been growing all summer.

Rain Checks Grid Drills of Schools In Twin Cities

Neenah to Meet St. Mary's At Butte Morts Field Saturday

Menasha—Rain yesterday interfered with football practice on three fronts as Twin Cities high school teams prepared for games this weekend. Skull sessions were in order and replaced the more active contact on the practice field.

St. Mary high school and the Neenah high team will meet on Saturday afternoon at the Butte des Morts field. No comparative scores are available to make comparisons of the two teams. Neenah has an advantage in the number of reserves over St. Mary but both first teams stack up as light but fast.

St. Mary dipped into Northeastern Wisconsin conference competition and lost a 14 to 0 decision to Kaukauna. The Kaws defeated New London as did Neenah which might indicate a margin of strength for the Red Rockets.

The Menasha high school squad will meet Kaukauna Friday night under the lights at the Butte des Morts field. The Bluejays will probably have an edge in physical condition for the Kaws were badly bruised in their hard game with West DePere last week. Kaukauna lost to the Black Phantoms by two touchdowns while the Bluejays were defeated by a 13 to 7 score. Indications are for a close, hard-fought game here Friday night.

The Menasha line up may be somewhat revised for this game by Coach N. A. Calder. Westberg has been receiving intensive drill at an end post and his liking for the tough-going may put him in at a starting position. One or two other changes are likely in the line and in the backfield.

Teachers Will Select Neenah Honor Students

Neenah—The teacher's committee to select honor students from each class at the end of each six-week period at the Neenah High school has been appointed by Principal John Holzman.

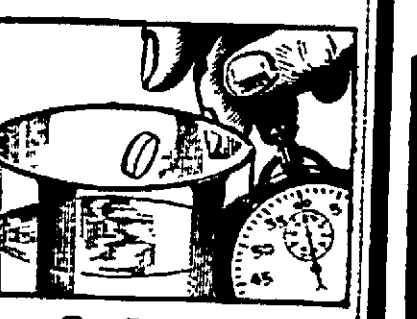

Two students from each of the four classes are selected by the faculty committee according to a Rotary code of ethics. It is preferred to have a boy and girl from each class, although this is not essential. A student is allowed to attend only once, and the teachers are required to state why they select certain students. This feature was added more than 10 years ago.

Neenah Man Gives Talk About Safety at School

Neenah—Floyd Bricknell, district manager of the American Automobile association, talked on safety to Neenah High school students in an assembly this morning. The talk was a preliminary to the organization of students into a school boy patrol which will be done in conjunction with the school. Neenah Lions club and the association. Organization will start next week, it was announced.

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.
By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pains a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15 a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece. Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time. For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Harvest Festival, Sponsored by Lions, To Be Held Thursday

Waupaca—The fourth annual festival sponsored by the Lions club is to be held Thursday with a program opening at 10 o'clock in the morning and continuing throughout the day concluding with a spelling bee and a dance at the armory.

The program will open with contests for farmers and their wives to be held on down town streets. Corn husking, nail driving, potato peeling and other contests will furnish competition for which first, second and third place winners will receive prizes donated by local merchants.

The spelling bee will be at 8 o'clock in the evening at the armory, when two prizes will be given to each of the first four places, and teachers of the four schools represented will also be given prizes.

Lloyd Matheson's 7-piece orchestra will furnish music for the old time dance for which a fee of 15 cents will be asked for each person, 5 cents for children.

Tri-County Loop Leaders to Clash

Kimberly and Marion Will Battle at Latter City Friday

Kimberly—Kimberly High school gridders and Marion high will tangle in a game at Marion Friday afternoon for first place honors in the Tri-County conference. Last week Marion defeated Pulaski by a score of 32 to 0. The win leaves Marion and Kimberly in a tie for the lead with two victories and no defeats.

The last three games the Paper-makers showed in were non-conference. They tied Menasha and lost to Little Chute and Chilton. They won from Bear Creek and Manawa in conference games. Coach Hamann will have his squad out this week for regular workouts and hopes for another win.

On Oct. 30 Kimberly goes to Pulaski for the last scheduled conference game.

The Kimberly lineup Friday will include: Vander Boogaard, Van Dyke, Barrand, Behrend, Van Susteren, Fieweger, La Berg, Gaffney, De Leeuw, Kruger, Parent and Weyenberg.

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: When flashly Prescott Fanning abducts Janet from Baltimore on his yacht, she gets word to Neill, a young federal agent who loves her. Dashing to Abolom's Harbor, he boards the yacht and finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning, shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill hides her nearby in a disused liner. Back at the village, he sees queer little David Eyster who hated Fanning. Neill offers to help Mark Fanning, keep local in vestigator. They confer with lawyer Kettering of Baltimore. Then Neill sneaks food and clothes to Janet.
Chapter 2:
The Packet Of 53 Bills. AVE you had your supper? Neill asked. No. I was waiting for you.' Janet said. 'I'm not going to touch any of this food. Every crumb's for you.' 'I'm not hungry now.'
"Sit down and I'll feed you." And feed her he did, mouthful by mouthful like a bird.
When she protested that she could swallow no more, Neill said she needed exercise. Taking the flashlight, they started for a prow round the ship. The silence of the long passages laid a kind of spell on them. Janet's hand stole inside Neill's and they spoke in whispers. On B deck above, they passed through a series of immense public rooms - palm garden, lounge and smoking room - all lavishly gilded and decorated with paintings. The movable furniture had been taken away, but the carpets were still on the floors and the built-in settees around the wall. The flashlight, wherever it was turned, revealed a series of dusty masterpieces. And so empty!
"Imagine this scene with the lights turned on, the orchestra playing."

Council Orders Clerk to Borrow Additional Funds

Aldermen Study Budget Problems; Approve Agreement With Union

Kaukauna — Economy was the thing at last night's meeting of the council at the municipal building, with the report of the financial committee on Kaukauna's funds receiving most of the attention.

To begin with, the committee estimated that the city clerk would need $29,539 more to last him until December 31, 1937, and it was recommended to the council that the amount be borrowed immediately. The council approved the suggestion, with the result that the sum borrowed so far this year by the city was raised to almost $100,000.

The finance committee, composed of Aldermen Nagel, Mulholland and Alger, went further into an explanation of Kaukauna's financial condition. The schedule of Kaukauna's bonded indebtedness was read to the council, with the total debt amounting to $337,000. In 1936, $30,000 of this amount will fall due, as will also be the case in 1939. In 1940 and 1941 $20,104 will fall due each year, in 1942 and 1943 $15,104 will fall due, and from 1944 to 1952 $20,104 will be the yearly payments. From 1952 to 1955 payments of $15,104 are due.

Wants Strict Budgets

The presentation of these figures brought on a discussion of means of keeping within a budget during the next year. Alderman Mertes spoke for the plan of having each city agency strictly budgeted, with no money shifts from one to another being permitted. Alderman G. S. Mulholland replied for the finance committee, stating the committee was preparing such a plan at the present time.

The issuance of more bonds, to be called "relief bonds," was suggested by the committee. Unless these were done taxes would be "raised way up," Alderman Raymond Nagel said, adding "there'll be some increase in the tax rate anyway—we all know that."

Routine business formed the rest of the meeting. The fire department requested the purchase of a hose nozzle, costing $40, which the council approved.

The agreement between the Municipality and the city was ratified, with an amendment agreed upon at the last meeting being inserted in the approved document.

Oppose Land Purchase

The board of public works, appointed at the last council meeting as a committee to consider the purchase of the property known as Eden park, adjoining LaFollette park, recommended that the purchase not be made. The council approved their recommendation.

Alderman Oscar Alger reported that the sidewalk and sewage crews working on the north side were undermanned, and asked permission of the council to take men from the relief roll to help out. His request was granted.

Grade School Eleven

Plays Today, Sunday

Kaukauna — The St. Mary's football team, undefeated in four straight games this year, will risk their perfect record twice this week. This afternoon they will play St. John's of Little Chute on the high school grounds, and on Sunday will journey to Kimberly for a tilt with the Holy Name team. This game will begin at 2 o'clock and will be open to the public, no admission being charged. It is scheduled for the Kimberly ball park.

Receipts of Utility

$38,000 in August

Kaukauna—Total gross earnings of the Kaukauna Electric department for the month of August were $38,836.63, according to a report submitted to the council last night. Cash discounts of $1,343.45 left a net income of $37,493.23.

Operating expenses for the month were $33,089.21, leaving a gross income of $4,404.02. A new operating income of $266.71 was reported after subtracting income accounts of $4,137.31 from the gross income.

Seventeen new subscribers were added, making the total 3,352. Kilowatt hours purchased were 2,203,000.

Flynn Files Claim Against Kaukauna

Charges City Was Negligent In $10,000 Ice-house Fire

Kaukauna—A claim for $10,850 as a result of damages suffered in a fire on July 5, 1937, when his ice-house burned down, was filed with the city council last night by William P. Flynn. Flynn charged the city with negligence in permitting fireworks to be set off within the city limits.

The fire broke out shortly before midnight on July 4th, and burned the frame building down to the level of the ice inside of it in about 45 minutes. No insurance coverage was on the icehouse.

Fireworks had been set off on a lot near the icehouse that evening. The skyrockets had been shot from a point on the river bank near the icehouse, which was just opposite the LaFollette picnic grounds.

The icehouse was a frame building with double wooden walls, filled with sawdust. The roof was covered with tar paper, which burned rapidly once the fire reached it. It was built about 45 years ago by Luther Lindauer, and was owned by three others before Flynn.

The council referred the claim to City Attorney Harry F. McAndrews.

Kaukauna Golf Club

May Be Reorganized

Kaukauna — A meeting of the Kaukauna golf club has been announced for 7:30 tomorrow evening at the municipal building. The purpose of the assembly will be to reorganize the club on a plan similar to that used in other communities, by means of a holding company or other methods. Election of directors for the coming year will also be held at the meeting, which is the club's annual affair.

High School Students

Hear Author-Explorer

Kaukauna — Kaukauna High school students attended the first of the six lecture programs scheduled for the school year yesterday morning. The speaker was Captain Carl von Hoffman, explorer and author, who talked on "From Cairo to the Cape," relating the adventures and experiences befalling him in African jungles and veldt. The lecture was accompanied by motion pictures.

Plans are being considered for uncovering a town near Alexandria, Egypt, known as Taposiris Magna and founded in the time of the Ptolemies.

Dim Lights for Safety

Students May Earn Places in Honorary Athletic Association

Kaukauna — Kaukauna high school students have an opportunity to become members of the National Honorary High School Athletic association through the passing of certain requirements, Coach Paul E. Little said yesterday. The tests are open to all students.

In order to qualify prospective members must pass successfully all of ten tests. They must demonstrate their ability to run 50 yards in 6.1 seconds, to run 100 yards in 11.4 seconds, to run the 120 yard low hurdles in 16.5 seconds, and to run 1320 yards in three minutes and 36 seconds or less.

Additional requirements are the putting of the 12 pound shot at least 37 feet, high jumping four feet and ten inches, broad jumping 16 feet and four inches, throwing a baseball 225 feet, making nine baskets in one minute and kicking a football 40 yards. Candidates may skip one event if they are able to substitute for it a letter earned in high school.

The trials must be supervised by the coach or a faculty member, and may be run off any time during the student's 8 semesters of high school study. No student over 20 years old is eligible.

Pigeon Club to Elect Officers

Relative Merit of West and South Flying Courses Discussed at Meeting

Kaukauna — Officers will be elected on the next meeting, Nov. 28, of the Kaukauna Pigeon club. It was decided at a meeting last night. Those from Kaukauna present were Len Helein, Ken Jansen, Frank Heimke, Les Seggink, Norbert Driessen, Walter Martz, Arthur Sturm, Jack Helein, Frederick Reuter and Ervin Haessly. From Seymour came Jack Kessinger and Iva Huettli. Appleton fanciers failed to attend the meeting because of bad weather.

The main discussion of the meeting, which was in charge of Walter Martz, centered about a west or south flying course for future meets. It was decided to give a prize list to the local express agent and have him make inquiries as to train service.

At the next meeting racing bands will be ordered for the 1938 season and new rules set up. It was decided last night to buy three transportation crates for club use, and to affiliate with the American Racing Pigeon Union.

Gridders Avoid Mud; Work Inside

Little Directs Signal Practice in Preparation For Menasha Tilt

Kaukauna — Kaukauna High school gridders were spared a mud bath yesterday afternoon as Coach Paul E. Little sent them through their paces in the high school gymnasium, the day's rain having turned the practice field into mud.

With limited space to work in, the hard work of Monday afternoon in tackling and blocking was omitted, with nothing but a light signal practice being run. Most of the first stringers were soon excused from even this, and the subs took over the floor. With hopes for retention of the Northeastern conference title almost entirely gone as a result of last Friday's defeat by West De Pere, Little will undoubtedly use as many of the second stringers in the three remaining games as he can, with the intention of giving them seasoning for next season.

Prospects for victory Friday night when the Kaws invade Menasha are not bright. The Kaws have by no means recovered from the physical beating they received at West De Pere while Menasha was enjoying a week off, with the result that they have had two weeks in which to prepare for Little's team.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Rev. Norbert Rank and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rank of Florence, are visiting with relatives and friends here.

Mrs. Eva Krusch of Whitelaw is spending the week here with her parents.

playing and the passengers dancing," murmured Janet.

"Sure," said Neill, "and imagine it in a storm with the ship rolling like a barrel and the passengers seasick."

She laughed. It was good to him to hear her laugh.

The most attractive room was the restaurant up on the boat deck. "This is where the champagne corks popped," said Neill.

"They went down light after flight of stairs to E deck, because Neill wanted another piece of rope and a bucket out of the galley. Back again in the royal suite, he showed her how to lower the bucket out of the window when she wanted water for washing.

Afterwards they sat pressed closed together on the sofa, smoking comfortably while Neill gave her an account of the happenings of the day. He left out what he thought would distress her too much.

"Well, what are we going to do?" Janet asked.

"You had better stay here a couple of days longer if you can stick it out."

"The worst is over now. I can stand it."

"By then the first crazy excitement ought to have died down."

"And then what?" he asked himself. However, he wasn't going to let her see that he was at a loss. "I'll arrange to have a car waiting for us across the river," he said confidently. "They are watching this side too close."

"How will you get a car?"

"I'll go up to town. I know a man who will help us."

Plenty of Money

As they talked things over, Neill was obliged to confess that his money was running short.

"Oh," said Janet, "luckily," said Janet.

Neill stared at her. "What?"

She got up and, crossing to the desk, pulled out a drawer. She brought him a packet of new $5 bills, fastened with a paper strap and a pin, and with the stamp of the bank on the strap. Neill could scarcely believe his eyes. It was the same packet that he had seen Fanning put in his wallet two nights before, and he would at first have seen a venomous snake in Janet's hands.

The sight of that money reminded Neill that Janet had not told a credible story of what had happened aboard the yacht, and because he loved her so much it hurt him as if his flesh had been torn.

"Where did you get that?" he demanded.

"I found it in the pocket of my wrap," she said, astonished at his tone.

"Who put it there?"

"It's Fanning's money!"

"Well . . . I suppose it must be. But if it's a case of life and death with us . . ."

Anger swept through Neill like

The roomy was empty, the door unbolting and standing open on the corridor. His anger vanished then. Snatching up the flashlight, he ran through the corridor softly, calling her name.

"Jen! . . . Jen! . . . Wait!"

He assumed that there was only one way she knew: down to E deck across the dining saloon and the galley and into the engine room shaft. It was the way they had first come. Surely he could overtake her before she had gone far. She had to grope her way in the dark. He ran on, occasionally pausing to listen. He could hear nothing. He plunged down the two flights.

When he reached the galley, he realized that he must have passed her. She had hidden behind some corner to let him pass. He turned back. Suppose his anger had rendered her completely desperate? Suppose she returned to the suite and threw herself out of the window? He ran on, sick with fear.

However, there was no sound ahead of him. She had not come back to this part of the vessel. He ran into the suite and, without waiting to pull up the rope ladder, closed the window upon it, and also the other windows of the veranda. They were very stiff and he knew she could not open them.

He started down the stairs again. On D deck he heard some mouselike sounds in one of the corridors and searched it carefully by cabin. She was not there. Of course while he was looking on one side, she could run through a cross passage and returned on the other. It was like searching a rabbit warren.

He went down to E deck again. While he was in the galley he heard the clang of an iron door ahead of him and plunged in the direction of the sound. She had entered the engine room shaft. She was going on deck.

When he got into the shaft he heard her far above him racing up the iron stairs. "Jen! Jen!" he called. "Wait!" He leaped up the stairs, straining every nerve to overtake her before she could get cut on deck. Before he reached the top she was through the door and running forward on the boat deck. He caught her by the forward ladder, and none too soon, because across the decks of the other ships he could see the watchman's lantern coming towards them.

She struggled desperately in his arms. "Let me go! Let me go!"

"Quiet, Jen, for God's sake!" he implored her. "The watchman is coming this way."

"All right, let him come! I want him to come! I'm going to give myself up!"

"No! No! Think what you're doing!"

"I will give myself up; I'm not going to let you risk yourself if you don't believe in me!"

"I do believe in you! I swear it!"

"It's too late to say that now!"

An unseen brute attacks Neill en route to the village, tomorrow.

Research Needed In Industries, Chemists Told

Dr. Weidlein Tells of Trends Based on Years
Of Experiments

It might be a bit hard to picture a husky football player, after a strenuous game, sitting down to a dish of ice cream filled with sugar, but it would be good for him.

That is what industrial research has found, according to Dr. Edward R. Weidlein, president of the American Chemical Society, who spoke before a meeting of the Northeast Wisconsin section of the society at Lawrence college last night.

Dr. Weidlein, director of the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh, outlined the general trends of industrial research and predicted the probable lines of their future development.

Touching on an innumerable number of subjects, the institute director told of new markets being continually opened through industrial research and of new large industries resulting.

Misunderstood

"Industry is sometimes misunderstood for what it has done for the world," he said. "Research has found new uses for materials, but the contributions to civilization have been made by industry which develops the finds and puts them on the market in uniform quality and at a reasonable price."

That industry is coming to realize the value of fundamental research more and more is shown in the fact that in 1900 there was only one large research laboratory, that of the General Electric company, while now there are more than 2,000, he said.

At the present time everything is against industry, he went on. Every time it finds a way to produce a product at a lower cost, the government slaps on a new tax, he said in speaking of gasoline production.

There is a way out, and that is through industrial research, he said, in finding new uses for materials.

Part of Demand

Demand plays a large part in bringing about new products such as shirt collars that have the appearance of stiff ones, yet retaining all the qualities of soft ones, he explained.

A cigarette advertisement which read, "reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet," brought about research in the sugar industry which resulted in such findings as that of sugar not being harmful to teeth, but a builder of energy, he said. Research along this line found new uses for sugar and new industries have resulted.

Industries, he continued, are indebted to universities for the research work they carry on. Most big companies are beginning to realize this and the cooperation is ever improving, he said.

"Years ago kerosene was the chief product of petroleum, and gasoline was dumped into the rivers at night to get rid of it," he said, "while now most youngsters don't know what kerosene is. Research probably will find a new fuel for cars and other engines when better uses are found for gasoline."

Safety Glass

It was known for a long time that safety glass had no safety when temperatures dropped to a certain point, he revealed, but research now has discovered a method that makes it safe at any temperature.

For a long time makers of enamel were criticized because it chipped from the metal it was on, and research showed that it was not the enamel but the steel backing that was at fault, he said.

Research also found ways of coloring marble which opened new uses for it. In the past, when something different was wanted in marble, it was shipped in from foreign countries. Coloring now has opened the new market for the product, with black being one of the most popular colorings for attractive store fronts, he said.

The demand of changing styles put one leather company on the

It's Time to Watch Your Feet for Days of Galoshes are Approaching

SOAK OUT ACIES . . .
Here's a regimen that's good to use every night. Start by soaking your feet in lukewarm, soapy water.

It will soon be galosh time. Feet that have had the benefit of open-toed sandals and summer sun will hibernate in heavy shoes and rubber overshoes.

That's a strenuous change so let's give winter feet some special consideration.

In the first place, be sure shoes and stockings fit. That's even more important for foot comfort in winter than in summer.

To Avert Pain

When stockings are too small they give out in the toe. They also slide down at the heel, leaving the sheer part of the stocking to rub against the back of the shoe—and sprout runners.

Shoes that are too small make tired feet perspire more than they normally do. And perspiration causes foot scaling which often is very painful.

red side of the ledger until it reported to research and found ways to color leather, he said. The research work also discovered other things, such as making leather more flexible, bettering its wearing quality and dyeing it so that it became unnecessary to shine shoes almost until they were worn out.

Some measurement or standard should be set when research is started, he said in relating his experience in the razor blade industry. Blades were being made with no standard for sharpness, he said. It was found that some were too full while others were too sharp. A standard was set up after several years of study and experimentation, he revealed.

When tomato juice first appeared on the market, he said, there was no standard of quality because no one was familiar with the taste of tomato juice, and a product of varying quality was first sold. This was not possible in the case of orange juice, he said, because people knew its taste and a certain standard had to be met.

Wet Leaves Slippery,
Chief Warns Motorists

Chief of Police George T. Prim today again advised motorists to drive carefully about city streets when the pavements are wet. Wet leaves may cause accidents unless drivers use caution and drive slowly, he said. They are slippery and a car skidding on them cannot be controlled, he explained.

RUB IN COMFORT . . .
Olive oil, rubbed in well, comes next. Mary Howard, motion picture actress, shows how. She lets the oil stay over night.

Winter foot care is not such a task if you make it part of your beauty regimen. It means:

- (1) Keeping the feet clean.
- (2) Applying a little olive oil or cuticle cream to the toes and nails now and then.
- (3) Cutting the toe nails reasonably short—and filing away ragged edges.

(4) Applying a little hand lotion or night cream to chapped parts of the feet and ankles.

About Corns

Some beauty experts advise using cuticle remover for callouses on the heels and the bottoms of the feet. Others say it's best to rub the callouses with pumice stone—if you rub gently.

Nearly all experts agree that corns shouldn't be cut off except by a chiropodist.

There's a simple night ritual that is almost certain to bring comfort to aching feet. It involves soaking the feet in soapy lukewarm water or a solution of baking soda in warm water, rubbing the feet dry with a Turkish towel and massaging them with olive oil.

And it's a good plan to dust the feet with talcum powder after the morning shower.

work-day with fifteen minutes of morning exercises. The president of the court said physical exercise was the best way to prepare for the monotony of court routine.

Dykstra to Talk On City Affairs

University President Will Address Meeting
Here Oct. 27

"The City Faces the Future" will be the subject of a talk which will be given by Dr. Clarence Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, at a forum meeting of the city's three service clubs and the Chamber of Commerce at noon Wednesday, Oct. 27, at Conway hotel.

Formerly city manager of Cincinnati, Dr. Dykstra is recognized as one of the nation's leading authorities on municipal administration. He will address a gathering of Wisconsin alumni on educational subjects where that same evening.

The Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis clubs will meet with the Chamber of Commerce in the first of a series of joint sessions planned by the civic bodies.

Dr. Carl Neidhold is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee which has charge of the meeting. Other committee members are Dr. W. G. Keller, Joseph Koffend, R. W. Mahoney, David Smith, John W. Lawlor, Carl A. Kreuter, and Lawrence G. Frei.

DEER HUNTERS GO RED

Denver—(P)—To make deer hunters poor targets, R. G. Parvin, state game commissioner, suggests they wear red capes and hats.

"Last year we had only three fatalities among 16,000 deer hunters but this year we would like to get by without accidents," says Parvin.

"And if hunters must drink strong liquor, they should do so moderately," he added. "Liquor and bullets do not mix successfully."

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor

Woods Hole, Mass.—No matter how much it investigates, science, doesn't get a really satisfactory explanation of death by freezing.

Investigations of what happens during freezing always leave a loophole, something still unexplained, which can be used by a romancer to predict that some day a refrigerator will be built capable of suspending man's animation for a century or so. The "farthest north," scientifically speaking, in facts discovered on death by freezing is the effect on the mechanisms of the cell. The cells of which man is made are visible individually only under a microscope.

When death comes by any other means than freezing, as by heat, injury or poison, the protoplasm in living cells coagulates. It turns from the appearance of the white of a fresh egg to that of one hard-boiled.

But Dr. Basile J. Luyet, of St. Louis university, reporting to the Marine biological laboratory here, finds the protoplasm does not coagulate in cells killed by freezing. Nobody can uncoil an egg. But in a few cells, which are exceptions to the general cell rule, and take on a hard-boiled aspect with freezing, a good thaw "unboils" their protoplasm.

In death by freezing, Dr. Luyet finds that the protoplasm changes, but just how is not yet fully known.
